

Follows letter of the law

Bob Allen, the valley's gadfly Bay Area Rapid Transit District director, is keeping up pressure on his one-man campaign to abate allegedly illegal campaign signs. Allen, up for reelection next month, last week was enjoined from removing legally posted signs and cautioned about tampering with questionable ones by an Alameda County Superior Court Judge. Opponent John R. McCardle, however, claims the state's Outdoor Advertising Act, which restricts the use of signs, is an unconstitutional violation of free speech. Allen added coals to the fire by writing the State Department of Transportation asking for enforcement of the advertising act. CalTrans has not yet responded to his list of signs and accompanying photographs.

Legislator discounts poor business rating

A report that the state ranks near the bottom of the national heap when graded on its "business climate" got the short shrift from State Assemblyman Floyd Mori yesterday.

But the chairman of the assembly's new, permanent sub-committee on employment and economic development — and a former economics professor at Chabot College — says that "doesn't mean we can't do anything to enhance the business climate."

"We (State Legislators) have failed to address ourselves to what impact state government can have on economic development," he said. "We've pawned it off on Washington."

True, he added, the greatest impact comes from the federal level, but the state "must look at the economic impact of what its legislation is doing."

That report ranking California's business climate 47th in the nation weaves its way into nearly all his committee hearings, he said, but the freshman assemblyman is "very leary of accepting (it) as a premise."

"It's difficult to compare California with other states for its 'business climate,'" he continued. Florida spends $8 million per year to promote tourism, speakers tell his committee, and Hawaii some $9 million each year. California spends nothing.

But "tourism is Hawaii's main industry," he countered adding he doubts whether tourism would be cut in half if its promotional budget were similarly slashed.

"Which is the effect?" he asked rhetorically. Does the budget draw the tourists, or does tourism encourage the large budget?

Compared to other states, we spend considerable sums on agriculture.

His committee, he continued, must ask what industries are effected and where the effects will be felt if proposed legislation becomes law.

"Streamlining the permit process," a move for which he praises the City of Pleasanton, is a top priority of the committee. There is a "need to put it all together, to have one place where someone can get answers to questions."

Small business, "the heart of the economy," he claims, must "not only survive, but be encouraged and enhanced. The problems (for the small business person) are frustrating, almost insurmountable."

Small business, he claims, accounts for nearly half the state's unemployment and "is where big business comes from."

Financing currently is available through the federal Small Business Administration, he noted. But should the state get involved in additional programs?

The California Jobs Program was formed in reaction to the Watts riots of the mid-1960s to offer "debt financing" for businesses that would add to the employment rolls.

It has been sharply criticized for its low, 55 per cent success rate, said Mori, but by those who do not realize it was financing of last resort for high risk businesses.

It had shown "a positive impact on employment," he said.

He hopes his committee develops positive projects that "streamline the processes" now required under legislation and court decisions, and that the legislature "recognize the economic impact" of its acts.

He must also, he feels, recommend programs "with positive economic impacts."

Mori endorses pipeline

State Assemblyman Floyd Mori, facing his first re-election trial next month, is against both the controversial dog racing measure and the farm workers initiative, he told the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce yesterday while "wholeheartedly supporting" their endorsement of the LAVWMA sewer line.

He also questioned charges by opponent David Funch of Hayward that the former Pleasanton mayor supports a gun initiative.

"I've never even looked at a gun initiative," said Mori. "I'm just wondering where my opponent gets his information."

Gambling is not the way to raise state revenue, the former Chabot College economics professor said. "If Nevada wants to have it, let them. That's their major source of revenue. But things are different in California."

He said gambling effects mainly the poorer, disadvantaged class who are "reaching at something. Trying for that one, big win."

Later, however, Mori told The Times he would not necessarily go along with moves to eliminate horse racing from the state. "Not without looking at alternate sources of revenue," he said.

He concedes to being "probably one of the very few Democrats" against the farm workers initiative, claiming it would add "labor law" to the state constitution.

But he rejects arguments that passage would endanger the private property rights of farmers, saying "I don't look at it in that particular gloom."

Neither the current law nor the initiative "lets farm workers or farm worker organizers enter any place, any time," he said.

Organizers currently are allowed three hours of access a day: once before work, once at lunch and once after work, he added.

Last week's refusal by the U.S. Supreme Court to review the current state law upholds the validity of the State Agricultural Relations Board's provisions for access by workers and their organizers, he feels.

Proposition 14 says the board will be "adequately funded," Mori said, a responsibility already held by the State Legislature under the existing law.

Some flu clinics cancel following three deaths

SWINE FLU HOTS CANCELLED
The 10-foot sign on the Senior Service Center is crayoned in purple and red.

Inside the Eighth Street, Livermore, center serving the elderly, three women are on the phone, trying to reach 463 people.

"...Temporarily until we find out ... Contact you when we have a new date ... Sorry."

Swine flu shots were to have been given out free, today and tomorrow, to high-risk patients of any age, and to all senior citizens, at the Senior Service Center. Pleasanton's elderly came next week at Kottinger Place. There were also clinics planned for the Pleasanton Fairgrounds, California High School and the Family Medical Center.

So far, the only clinics being canceled are those for senior citizens in Alameda County, through Oct. 15. Health officials here are following the lead of those in at least five states in stopping their mass swine flu shot programs until they find out why three elderly people died of heart attacks in Pittsburgh, Pa., shortly after being vaccinated.

In Contra Costa County, however, plans are still underway to inoculate people. Their schedule includes: Oct. 24, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., San Ramon Valley Community Center, 135 Love Lane, Danville; Oct. 30, 11 - 4, California High School, 9870 Broad St., San Ramon.

An evening clinic is scheduled Nov. 3 in the Family Medical Center, 9260 Alcosta Blvd., San Ramon.

It will be a day or two before autopsies on the three dead people reveal whether there was any direct relationship between the swine flu vaccine and the heart attacks. So far, doctors generally feel the deaths were a coincidence, possibly produced by the stress of receiving the inoculation rather than from chemical effects.

Anyone allergic to eggs or chickens is advised not to take the shot, which is cultured in eggs.

If no relationship can be found between the vaccine and the heart attacks, Alameda County will reschedule its clinics for the elderly, probably around Oct. 22. The schedule will be announced in The Times when finalized.

Robert Nance of the state Health Department said his office has discussed the matter with federal public health officials and that 35,000 Californians have been vaccinated with no adverse reactions.

William Longhorn of the Contra Costa County health department said shots of senior citizens would start there Monday, as scheduled, although he promised, "We'll watch the situation very closely and get expert advice on whether to proceed."

A spokesman for the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., said there were no plans to curtail the nationwide program aimed at immunizing up to 200 million Americans against swine flu, a disease said to be capable of killing large numbers of people. An epidemic has been predicted for this winter.

State health officials in Wisconsin, Louisiana and Vermont ordered temporary suspension of the vaccination program. State health officials in Michigan said that vaccine from the same Parke-Davis batch used in Allegheny County, Pa., were also used in Michigan but there were no reports of ill effects among the more than 6,000 people who received it there.

As a precaution, no more vaccine from that lot was administered.

Complaints over cable's FM radio fee

PLEASANTON — A delegation of residents asked the city council to repeal the recent institution of a $1.50 per month service charge for FM by Tele-Vue Systems, the cable TV firm, but no action was taken Monday night.

Mayor Robert Philcox said he agreed with complaining residents who stated that anyone who had FM service prior to the monthly rate institution should have the service free, but he could not get a second to his motion to that effect.

The evening appeared to be a battle of semantics. Bill Lilly, general manager of Tele-Vue, said the $10 charged everyone who started FM service was an "installation charge." That's not to be confused with a monthly service charge, which is what Tele-Vue started charging this month, he said.

Residents took the position that Tele-Vue employees told them the $10 installation charge was a "one time only" fee, implying that they should never be charged again for FM service.

Lilly said he was willing to refund the $10 installation charge to anyone who wants to discontinue the FM service.

Fair board nixes dog race stand

The Alameda County Fair Board last night accepted a racing committee recommendation for a "no" position on the greyhound racing initiative (Prop. 13).

Directors also voted to continue the horse training program, a second recommendation forwarded by the race panel.

Board members previously expressed no interest in considering a lease proposal submitted by the Greyhound Racing Association, for use of the Pleasanton grounds in the event Prop. 13 is passed.

Directors also learned that John Cantwell of the law firm of Moore, Sizer and Cantwell could not handle a legal matter concerning revenue losses resulting from the 1976 fair.

Council wants pit plan monitored

PLEASANTON — The rest of the city council agrees with Mayor Robert Philcox and Councilman William Herlihy that the gravel industry's reclamation plans for their pits bear close scrutiny, they told The Times yesterday.

Herlihy, a member of the Valley Sand and Gravel, has called for the council to take a close look at the valley reclamation plan for the local gravel pits and the council has responded by its intention to meet with the Livermore City Council at the earliest convenient date.

Philcox has helped lead the way with a letter to the sand and gravel committee declaring the city's keen interest in following the plan's developments.

Vice-mayor Joyce LeClaire told The Times that the gravel industry, because of its technical nature, is not something on which council constantly concentrates, but there's a need to keep alert about any new developments.

"The reclamation plan is our best avenue for protection," said LeClaire. It should be and is closely monitored. I know our planning department always is aware about the gravel industries. There is a degree of cooperation between the gravel industries and the city and that can be improved. Hopefully the pits will be reclaimed so that they enhance the quality of life in the valley."

Councilman Frank Brandes said he is looking forward to the combined meeting between the two city councils.

"We have to look ahead. The problems we have today were created 20 or 30 years ago. However, some problems connected with gravel companies can't wait 20 years, for example, completion of El Charro Road. Completing that would get the gravel trucks out of Pleasanton. Even the southbound traffic could make better time on the freeway and would not go through town," said Brandes.

"Sometimes these things get pushed off to the side for awhile because of everyday city problems like the budget and sewers, but that's not to say this isn't important, too."

Councilman Ken Mercer said that he has not seen the reclamation plan and is glad the city will meet with the Livermore council to air its full details. "The plan sounds good from what I have heard. It has a lot of possibilities for recreational activities," said Mercer.

Mercer noted that the city council should not be involved with trying to regulate the gravel industry, but should be vigilant to the extent that it is assured the companies are proceeding according to county government regulation. He added that he would like to see El Charro Road completed to get gravel trucks out of Pleasanton.

Another Las Positas poll

PLEASANTON — Anyone left up in the air over the recent poll concerning public sentiment about whether to build the Las Positas overcrossing will have another poll to look at soon.

Jim Eaton's social studies class will fan out around the city in the last week of October to conduct their traditional election year poll and one of the questions will concern feelings about the Las Positas overcrossing.

The students haven't drafted the questions yet, but Eaton is sure they try to get a measure of the intensity of the feelings from each person voting in the poll. The classes will sample a selected number of people in each precinct and probably will talk to 300 to 500 persons, said Eaton.

Another local issue of interest to the students will be how the electorate feels about the LAVWMA pipeline project bond proposal, Proposition U.

There also will be the traditional makings of an election year poll with

Pleasanton men facing charges

LIVERMORE — Two Pleasanton men are facing charges in municipal court here for the burglary of four homes in one night.

Steven Jay Andrews, 19, and David Hugh Silvestri, 21, both of 272 Rose Ave., Pleasanton, pleaded not guilty Oct. 6 after police followed the two and reportedly witnessed the last of the burglaries.

Two unmarked Pleasanton police cars reportedly followed the pair after they allegedly broke into the home of Jay Craney, 4292 W. Los Positas, Pleasanton.

After following the suspects' car to a field at the west end of Los Positas, police arrested them.

Police reportedly confiscated power tools, oil, tool box, jewelry and camera equipment.

The pair also allegedly broke into the homes of Stephen Frost, 3771 Oak Book Court; Willfor Desposiers, 4140 Suffolk Way; and George Parsons, 4064 Jensen Street, all in Pleasanton.

In other court action: Sherman Bailey, who was returned from Texas after allegedly escaping from Santa Rita prison 8 months ago, was bound over to superior court where he will face charges Oct. 22.

Carlos Espinosa pleaded not guilty Oct. 6 to possession of marijuana and hashish. Police the Newark man, 33, was searched after a disturbance at Mally's Restaurant in Livermore Oct. 4. He is scheduled for an Oct. 29 court appearance.

David Joe Fox, 19, 6646 Hemlock St., Dublin, pleaded not guilty Oct. 7 to charges he took a tape recorder and tape player worth $285 from the house of David Moore, 6934 Pine Ct., Dublin, Sept. 5. He is scheduled for another court appearance Oct. 21.

Samuel Rae Roberts pleaded not guilty Oct. 5 to possession of cocaine, PCP and more than an ounce of marijuana. He was arrested near his home at 3810 Vineyard Ave., Pleasanton, July 28.

Jimmy Cantrell, 26 of San Francisco was scheduled to enter a plea Oct. 27 after attorneys failed to have the court dismiss the case because of the suspect's record of mental problems. He was arrested June 20 with two IBM typewriters he was accused of stealing.

Vote extension may doom car wash

PLEASANTON — Automatic car washes in downtown Pleasanton, an issue which split the city council recently, may not be allowed in the downtown after all.

The council voted 3-2 at a previous city council meeting to allow the car washes, but when the second and final reading of the new ordinance came due Monday, Mayor Robert Philcox, the swing vote for approval, asked for a two week delay so he can think about it more.

The ordinance arose because Frank Louthan, owner of the Exxon Station on Main Street, wishes to install a fully automatic car wash on property next to his station. The car wash would front on Angela Street.

When Philcox joined Councilmen Frank Brandes and Ken Mercer at the previous meeting in approving the ordinance, he made it clear to Louthan in the audience that approval of the ordinance did not mean necessarily that he would also approve Louthan's specific application for the car wash.

Philcox told The Times yesterday that he wanted the ordinance to "really sum up my feelings on it." "I wish we had had a chance to continue it originally. I see good points on both sides of the issue," said Philcox. "If I feel it is not a good zoning matter, I will admit I made a mistake and change my vote."

Enthusiasm, foresight led to her success

With a "belief in myself and a desire to succeed," former Lawrence Livermore Laboratory employee Nina Kiger battled the odds to become president of a million-dollar business and hasn't had time to look back.

Kiger spoke to a noontime gathering at the Lab this week, possibly inspiring those who, as she did, felt trapped in a dull job to cut free and follow their desires as she did.

An employee of the Lab from 1952-59, she quit "to see if I could make it out there, without friends, family or contacts."

"I was a 170-pound fatter, and constantly had every ache and ill known to man. I asked myself, 'How could I allow this to happen to my own body, and how can I prevent others from it?'"

She studied nutrition while working, and lost 40 pounds in seven weeks — after going through a divorce. She quit the Lab, and went through a series of jobs, until going back to the nutrition field.

Within four weeks of first asking advice on how to set up a diet center, Kiger had opened her own diet business. "Opportunity doesn't come — you must go out and look for it," she advised.

"It was an opportunity to do what I wanted, plus earn dollars and cents while doing it. And the self-esteem — to know, in a very small way, that I was helping others change their lives."

She met an old friend during that period, and within two days had formed a partnership. Kiger is now president of Fat Fighters Inc., and her partner is a member of the board of directors.

Fat Fighters Inc. now operates six diet centers in the Bay Area including one in Livermore, and plans to have a total of 18 centers open within the next five months. She envisions 25 centers in full operation in five years.

"You must define your goal, then prepare to be the very damn best there is," she says, brimming over with enthusiasm with each word.

She advises that each person take an honest inventory of himself, realistically evaluating all strengths and drawbacks. Based on this, and what each person feels he wants to do, that long-range goal will come into clear focus.

Opportunities will present themselves, but the individual must be prepared to take advantage when that happens, she says. "You must prepare for that opportunity, be able to realize opportunities, and take advantage when it finally arises."

Sex discrimination never affected her chances, Kiger said. "Perhaps I should have felt discriminated against, but how could I? All the males around me, my husband, business consultant, and partner always gave me support. I never felt my being female held me back. I felt more discriminated against being young than ever as a female."

She said that many business relationships with women had turned out bad, simply because another woman was involved. "Many women we meet and know are the true chauvinists. Many times I fared best with men in business relationships."

"Many of us create roles — and holes — for ourselves because we think of ourselves as female first, persons second. Think of where you want to be and still maintain your femininity and your dignity," she said.

"Remember gals, men can be replaced. We can be anything we want, if we prepare and work for it. It's up to you to go forward and make sure the next generation of women won't have to face discrimination."

But she prefers to push for the positive approach, and plays down the problem of sex discrimination.

"I sought out the opportunities and made it happen. Now it's up to me to manage my own destiny."

Want Donlon upgraded

(This is the first of three articles on the push for improved facilities at Donlon School in Pleasanton, the largest enrollment school in the Murray School District.)

In the vortex of the twin problems of declining enrollment and conversion versus status quo swirls Donlon School, off-maligned for its crowded facilities and seemingly forgotten.

Helping provide the power for keeping its collective head above the turbulent sea is an active Parent-Faculty Club, directed by Ginni Linger, and the school's administration, led by principal Mark Stott.

But Mrs. Linger and the Parent-Faculty Club have expressed continued reservations over the district administration and board's efforts at cooperation.

Mrs. Linger's concerns center on what she believes is a long overdue need for a true multi-purpose room.

"I would like to point out Donlon's increasing enrollment," the Donlon activist stated in a letter to the school board last April.

"Even if we send our seventh and eighth grade students to another location we will have excessive enrollment for our pods capacity. Our pods were designed to have the centers serve the purpose of a multi-purpose room, but it obviously cannot serve that purpose. We are unable to provide an adequate physical education program, drama productions, hot lunches, a centralized eating area, musical programs or provide adequate seating for special evening events and programs that would better serve the entire community."

Donlon's pods and portables now house 1,260 kindergarten through eighth grade students from the Val Vista and Valley Trails areas of Pleasanton. The enrollment represents approximately 24 per cent of the TOTAL district enrollment.

Projections indicate that the student population will increase slightly over the next few years.

This could change, however, if the Murray school board should ultimately adopt a Citizens Advisory Committee recommendation to convert Dublin School to seventh-eighth grade use.

Should this occur, seventh and eighth graders from the Donlon area might be bused to Wells on Penn Drive in Dublin.

"By building a multi-purpose room we can only enrich our children's education and finally use our pod centers in a more effective way such as centers for special reading and math learning programs," adds Mrs. Linger.

She also claims that three of the five trustees, Ted Woy, Peter Snyder and Ann Henderson, have "never to my knowledge come to Donlon during the school day."

College job clinic

The Chabot College Career Planning and Development Center will present a series of programs during October and November on employment opportunities and educational programs in public services work.

The series is free and designed primarily for adults in the community and evening students at the college.

For the next few weeks, members and program coordinators from the Public Services Division will provide information concerning career opportunities within specific occupational fields and related educational programs offered through the college.

Scheduled hours for each program are from 6 to 8 p.m.

The Career Planning and Development Center is located in the counseling and guidance area of Building 100 at the campus, 25555 Hesperian Blvd., Hayward.

The schedule of programs is as follows:
Thursday, Oct. 14 — Recreation and parks technology, Norman Olson, faculty advisor.

Wednesday, Oct. 20 — Therapeutic recreation and developmental disabilities, Linda Barde, faculty advisor.

Wednesday, Oct. 27 — Administration of justice, William H. Hopper, faculty advisor.

Wednesday, Nov. 3 — Fire science, Glenn Bass, faculty advisor.

Tuesday, Nov. 9 — Early childhood development, Peyton Nattinger, faculty advisor.

Wednesday, Nov. 17 — Human services, Robert Wood.

Information concerning the career awareness faculty consultant program may be obtained by contacting the Career Center at 782-3000, ext. 440.

Chabot's Mexican Christmas

Chabot College - Valley Campus is planning a "12 Days of Christmas" tour to Mexico.

First-hand experience in Mexican history and culture, along with the Spanish language, is the theme of a 12-day Christmas trip to Mexico City, Taxco, Guanajuato, and Guadalajara this Christmas season.

The "Navidad Mexicana" excursion will depart San Francisco by air on Dec. 18 and return Dec. 29. Planned in conjunction with Chabot College-Valley Campus and Athenour-Macchi Travel Service in Pleasanton, the excursion will be escorted by Maria Chavez Pellinen, a native of Mexico and currently a member of the Chabot College staff. Mrs. Pellinen is presently instructing Spanish 120, an evening class designed to instruct the student in "survival and bargaining" Spanish, and an introduction to Mexican history, geography and customs.

Arrival will be in Mexico City to visit many points of interest in and around the Capital city, among which are the National Palace, Chapultepec Park, Zocalo, Ballet Folklorico performed at Palace of Fine Arts, Pyramids at San Juan Teotihuacan, Temple of Quetzalcoatl, and Shrine of Guadalupe.

A bilingual native guide will meet the group on arrival Dec. 18 and accompany the travelers on all excursions.

Mobile school seminar

A traveling seminar to inform school districts about successful practice in education will tour California from Eureka to San Diego in October and November.

Sponsored by the California State Department of Education and the county superintendents, the seminar will describe 11 exemplary school practices which have proven to be effective in California schools. This seminar is designed to alert school board members, school administrators, teachers, guidance counselors and interested parents to alternative solutions for educational problems.

Two sections of the seminar are scheduled for the Bay Area. The first will be conducted at the California Teachers Association offices, 1750 Murchison Dr., Burlingame, Thursday, Oct. 14, starting at 9 a.m. and ending at 12:15 p.m.

Contact person for the Burlingame seminar is Janet Chamley, 364-5600, ext. 4216.

The other seminar will be held Friday, Oct. 15 at the Santa Clara Office of Education, 100 Skyport Dr., Santa Clara. Contact is Jesse Fajardo, 408-299-4031. Hours are also 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Each of the improved educational practices promoted by the seminar are funded by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act as exemplary projects under the law's Title IV-C. They have met the needs of students in elementary and secondary schools where they were developed and tested.

Included among the practices to be demonstrated at the sessions are:

Effects of teacher expectations on student achievement, reading remediation and development, mathematics computation, career education, three model Early Childhood Education programs.

Pleasanton reps slate teacher contract talk

PLEASANTON — Superintendent Bruce Newlin of the Pleasanton Joint School District and Tom Zach, president of the Amador Valley Teachers Association, will discuss collective bargaining and issues related to the Pleasanton teachers contract today at 5 p.m.

The session will be conducted at the district media center at Pleasanton School with valley newspaper representatives in attendance and videotape crew members.

No members of the public and no teachers will be permitted to sit-in on the discussion. Individuals and groups may view the videotape at a later date. Radio station KKIQ may also tape the discussion.

Four topics will be addressed, each speaker talking for 10 minutes followed by questions from the press.

How they decide taste

DUBLIN — The success of the taste-testing program at Foremost Research and Development Center in Dublin partially depends on assistance from local consumers.

Members of community organizations and groups in the Dublin, San Ramon, Pleasanton and Livermore areas are continually being invited to come to the center and participate in "Sensory Evaluation." That is the formal name for taste testing. Those who accept, sample and evaluate various food products.

Individuals not involved in groups are welcome too. Payment varies according to the type of testing being done.

Food products being tested are developed by Foremost and other companies that contract to use the Foremost sensory evaluation facilities.

As far as Foremost's products are concerned, their dairy items are most frequently tested. Ice cream, yogurt, instant breakfast mix and low-fat dry milk powder head the list.

The type of testing being done determines what type of consumer is required for a specific test.

"Sometimes we need women. Sometimes men or both at the same time. For other tests, young people are required," said Project Leader, Kathleen Wolfe. "Everything depends on the type of test and its objective."

"And one reason we need a lot of consumer help is because we can't keep using the same people," said Wolfe. "They would become too experienced and we need what we call the untrained opinion — what the average observer thinks about a product."

When training and experience are essential to a test, Foremost calls on their Descriptive Flavor Analysis Panel. This panel consists of employees who have been taught to evaluate products objectively. They use a common frame of reference.

"They describe a product in terms of what it is, not how good or bad it is," said Wolfe.

Testing is done under controlled conditions in a laboratory. The air conditioned tasting room has a row of small booths separated by partitions.

"This insures privacy for each individual and helps them maintain his or her concentration," Wolfe said.

Each booth is equipped with a comfortable chair and a desk area where the item being tested and the questionnaire are placed. A portion of the wall in front of the desk area can be opened or closed. This aperture is one side of a small double-hooded bin where an item to be tasted is placed. The other side of the bin is in a room where test products are prepared. The product is put on a small tray, the bin's double hood raised and the tray is pushed through to the waiting taster.

Depending on specific test requirements, the taster may be asked to judge flavor, texture, appearance, sweetness, tartness, etc.

"When we want to test for flavor difference only we may need to turn on a special red light," said Wolfe. "That masks out color so the taster isn't influenced by appearance differences."

One test program that has been completed involved the removal of sugar from foods. Tasters determined how much sugar could be taken out before the taste of food fell below an acceptable level.

When very young boys and girls do taste testing, their questionnaires have a pictorial scale to determine the degree a product is liked or disliked. This scale has seven young boy faces or seven young girl faces drawn cartoon style. The boy or girl circles one they think best describes their feelings about the product. Facial expressions of the cartoons depict various degrees of likes and dislikes on a one to seven scale. The number seven like — extremely expression shows a big smile and a cluster of heart — shapes floating above. Number one dislike — extremely shows one hand with fingers holding the nose and the other hand giving a thumbs down signal.

"The reason we have boy faces for the boys and girl faces for girls is because younger age groups tend to respond better when they can identify with their own sex group," said Wolfe.

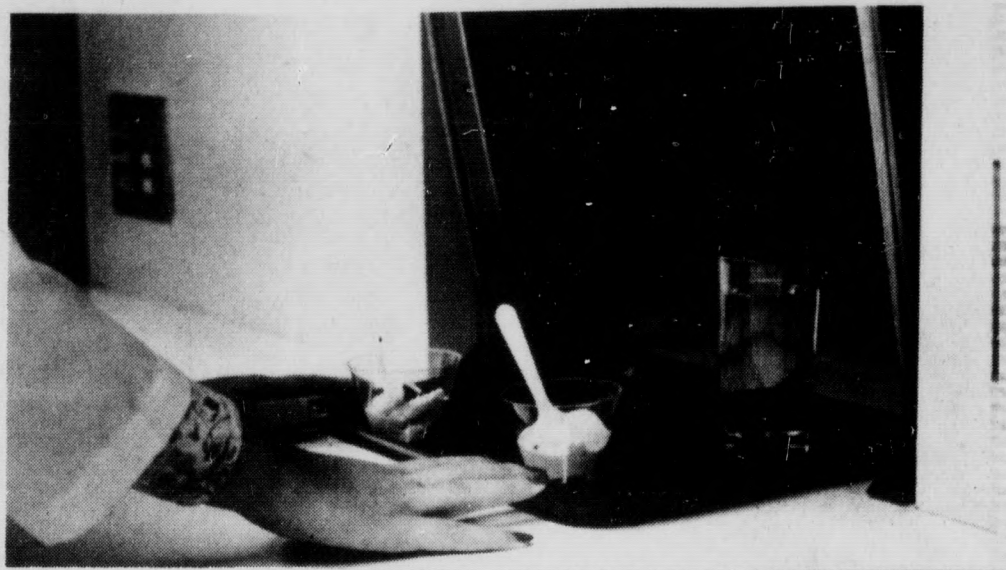

Most testing is done during the day. However, if working people are needed as a group evening sessions are scheduled. The sensory evaluation department works closely with the Foremost marketing division. The latter group decides if the product will meet market objectives.

"We try to formulate the best product possible for them to work with," Wolfe said.

"But it is the consumer who makes the final decision whether a product is a success or not. That's why we like to have them help us at the testing stage," continued Wolfe.

For further information about participating in Foremost's consumer taste testing program, contact: Ms. Krista D. McHugh, sensory technologist, Foremost Research Center, P.O. Box 2277, Dublin, Calif., 94566; or phone her at 828-1440, extension 38.

Pleasanton council adjusting routine pipeline pact terms

PLEASANTON — The city council approved routine housekeeping changes in the LAVWMA agreement affecting the proposed pipeline Monday night after several citizens expressed concern over the contract change.

The council approved a change from 13 million gallons a day capacity to 15.6 mgd for a residential flow in the pipeline. It also approved a ceiling of $1.5 million in capital improvement expenditures to be spent by the board without getting approval by the voters.

Citizen Francis Headley wondered whether the council was giving away the store by approving the changes, but City Manager Bill Edgar said that the change in the sewer capacity was in keeping with the proponents' intentions on the pipeline bond issue this fall.

Originally the pipeline's capacity was pegged at 13 mgd, but this was total of the Livermore sewage treatment plant (5 mgd) and the future combined Pleasanton - VCS plant (8 mgd). It was a rough estimate, said Edgar, and did not correspond to the Environmental Protection Agency's 2 per cent growth rate for the valley. The new figure, 15.6 mgd, does correspond, said Edgar.

The $1.5 million worth of capital improvements would allow the board to buy minor things for the pipeline, things like pumps, said Councilman Ken Mercer.

Miller implied that the changes would take the pipeline a control away from the voters.

Not true, said Councilman William Herlihy. Voters would still pass on any project over $1.5 million and the public is protected by the EPA's 2 per cent growth rate, he said.

Miller told The Times yesterday that the residential rate should be around 13.6 mgd for residential growth, or 15.6 mgd if it includes future industrial capacity. The EPA was wrong in allowing a 2 per cent growth rate in the valley if it really means what it says about controlling smog, said Miller.

The EO growth rate for the whole county is 4 per cent and it doesn't make any sense to allow a rate five times that in an air basin that has the county's worst smog problem, said Miller.

And if LAVWMA buys pumps for the pipeline with any unauthorized (by voters) $1.5 million, they just might be a pipeline sized at 15.6 mgd residential or larger, said Miller. He was to appear before the Livermore City Council last night in an effort to dissuade them from signing the LAVWMA agreement changes. VCS is the third party to the LAVWMA contract.

Councilman Frank Brandes told The Times yesterday that the LAVWMA board couldn't take any capital improvement funds not authorized by voters and apply it to pumps or other features which would serve a pipeline bigger than the one requested on the November ballot.

Pleasanton CofC backs pipeline

PLEASANTON — Proposition U, the November ballot measure that would authorize $8.3 million in bonds for the controversial LAVWMA pipeline, won the unanimous endorsement of the local chamber of commerce yesterday.

Citing approval by the Environmental Protection Agency, State and Regional Water Quality Control Boards, Association of Bay Area Governments, Bay Area Sewer Services Agency and the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, the endorsement passed without opposition on a voice vote.

The LAVWMA Line, proposed by the joint powers Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency, would pipe treated valley effluent through the Dublin Canyon to a "super sewer" along the bay basin. The mega-line would dump the East Bay's treated waste water into the bay through an outfall off Oakland International Airport.

About those endorsements

With yet another election upon us, there arises that question: "Just how does a newspaper go about making its endorsements?"

While avoiding any debate over the privilege of such selective recommendations, it is popularly accepted that "a responsible press" will always "take a stand" on the important issues and candidates. The Times has never skirted that responsibility.

We prefer to look upon such "recommendations" as a reflection of the community's posture, its need, its proven role.

There are of course instances where one editor's hangup, or that of some higher authority on the newspaper, might dictate a particular endorsement regardless of the prevailing local attitude. Personally, this is one editor who believes that such an approach is not only foolish, it is also poor journalism.

We are here to reflect the community we serve, and where possible the known majority of those within our sphere of influence. To consistently go against that "local feeling" over a long period of time suggests that the newspaper is out of step, and maybe the editor should be out of town, looking for a job where he is more appreciated.

With that bit of background, The Times prepares to offer its endorsements and recommendations in the next several days. We assure you that such are offered as this newspaper staff's best judgement, but nothing more. There are no "prior commitments," no outside force handing down selected decisions.

We are neither Republican nor Democrat, and our editorial support usually reflects that freedom. One thing more — while we encourage members of the news staff to write their own comments and even express their personal preference elsewhere on this page, the newspaper's only endorsement will always appear in this "Column One" slot, and will rest, in the final analysis, as the editor's decision.

That may or may not be the way most newspaper's approach the elections, but we wanted to share our procedure with you here, just to clear the air.

Teacher on bargaining

Editor, The Times:

This letter is being written to inform the public of some points of the collective-bargaining issue of Amador Valley High School District. As a teacher in this district, I find the public lacking in an understanding of the facts concerning the issues.

First, the public must realize that teachers are now working under a new law — SB160. All previous contractual issues no longer govern teachers and their jobs. We, at this time, do not have a contract and are only teaching in good faith — for the benefit of the students!

Not all of us teachers come from a "silver lining!" Many of us meet our monthly payments on a single income with no outside assistance (just as most of you). However, you must realize that, yes, we do care about your children, but we must also care about our own. Our children, too, have daily needs, a future and need an education.

This brings us to the current issues. Last year the teachers were informed that our salaries would be frozen and with an understanding of a district financial crisis, we were not alarmed. During the summer it became obvious that there would be no crisis because of additional state funding. Did the school board, headed by Mr. Wallace Decker and the district administration, headed by Dr. Bruce Newlin, reinstate our established salary schedule? No! This would have shown good faith to the teachers. These men then put the salary schedule into the collective bargaining issue; therefore, teachers must now bargain for something which has long been established, (not raises, not cost of living, not additional fringe benefits or any other common problem). The very basis of our pay structure has been taken away on the pretense of a financial crisis and offered in return at the bargaining table! Who is bargaining in good faith?

Unknown to the department chairpersons, their pay was withheld during the summer. Upon questioning this act in September, we were informed that it was withheld because of improper payment and this had to be straightened out. It is now our understanding that because it is on the bargaining table it will be withheld until our contract closure. We must now bargain to regain something that was taken away. Another example of good faith?

(Are you feeling the teachers' point of view?)

Binding arbitration seems to be a minor issue to Mr. Wallace Decker, as he stated in public newspapers; yet, he flatly refuses to move on the items even a fraction. This is a Must for teachers. Only to enforce the contract that your school board has worked out with us at the bargaining table. We do not want to gain control of Your Public Schools, or to have the final say in Your Child's Education, or to bankrupt your school district (Would we bankrupt the system that feeds us?) but we only want assurance that both parties will adhere to the contract.

Do teachers really need binding arbitration instead of advisory arbitration? Yes, because last year, for example, we worked out an agreement for a cost of living adjustment assuming night school and driver training teachers would receive the same as in the past. This did not take place! Obviously, we can no longer work under assumptions like we could in the "good old days."

Here is another example as to why we need binding arbitration. Last year's salary schedule was agreed upon with contingencies which supposedly meant adjustments would take place the following year if money was available. It was, however, unknown to us the wording was such that the administration did not have to pay the contingency. Who Bargained In Good Faith? Who Needs Binding Arbitration?

Currently we are engaged in collective bargaining against a board hired attorney, Mr. Breon. His fee for his work is approximately $5,000 per school district — elementary and secondary. This attorney represents about twelve school districts which means he receives nearly $100,000 of taxpayers money to bargain against teachers! Mr. Breon is also a school board member in his own community where the teachers have Binding Arbitration.

Now that Amador Valley School District teachers are involved in a "Community Action Program" of informing the public of our viewpoint, we are soliciting your support. Won't you consider these presented facts as you make your decision?

UC excess?

A proposed $2.2 billion University of California budget for 1977 was accompanied by the comment of U.C. Vice President Chester McCorkle that "it is time the state recognized its responsibilities." The remark seems all too appropriate although not in the sense McCorkle intended.

What the governor and the legislators, at whom the barb was aimed, should ask is "Isn't it time the state starts recognizing its responsibilities to the taxpayers? And how much longer can we afford the luxury of a state university?"

For with 120,000 students enrolled the U.C. proposal means the spending of $18,333 per student. The state's share of this alone figures to be $6020 per student. On top of that each student will pay a minimum of $300 in registration fees. And neither figure computes the amortization of the billions invested in buildings and grounds.

Nor should it be overlooked that most of the rest of the $2.2 billion comes out of the taxpayers' pockets through various federal grants and tax avoidance on the gifts made to the university.

This record provokes the instant thought that perhaps the time has come to abandon the university entirely and instead award students grants for tuition at private institutions. Looking at the tuition at the nation's finest universities the cold realization dawns that California taxpayers, and most likely the students too, would be far better off doing exactly that. There isn't a one of the Ivy League schools, including Yale and Harvard, whose tuition is much over $3400 and many excellent colleges are around $2000.

And the idea of packing students off to private colleges shouldn't jolt U.C. officials. Berkeley Chancellor Albert Bowker's daughter grabbed a state scholarship, intended for deprived students, for her enrollment at Stanford despite the fact Bowker's salary rivals that paid the governor and his wife was employed as a full professor.

Nor is the idea of shifting students from a state university to private colleges through scholarship programs far out. No less a person than Boston University President Dr. John R. Silber has been advocating just that for a number of years. Conceding he has an axe to grind in behalf of the independent schools, his fact is convincing.

For example, he cites the specific case of the cost of one new campus for the University of Massachusetts at $130 million to accommodate 5300 students. He points out that if those millions had been invested at seven per cent it would have provided an annual income of $9 million or enough to fund scholarship for 3000 students at the most expensive schools.

Think, then, what California could do by investing the $722 million requested by U.C. for just one year's operation! The interest would fund scholarships for 16,500 students. In only a few years the state could finance scholarships for all 120,000 students from interest alone and still have the appropriated funds intact.

There will be those who say the private colleges couldn't absorb that many students or they couldn't provide as good an education. Well, two years ago the National Association of Colleges reported 600,000 openings in the nation's private colleges. As for the quality of education there never has been any evidence that U.C. products were better or as good as those of the private schools let alone Harvard, Stanford, USC or any of the other prestigious schools of higher learning.

As Dr. Silber reminds, the private schools have been educating the public for more than three centuries without any cost to the taxpayers. Acknowledging that private colleges can never compete with state schools in cost to the students he accurately observes the state colleges can no way compete with the private ones on cost to the taxpayers.

If the best education is the true desire the right answer seems to be scholarships to private schools. It would have the beautiful added benefit of saving the taxpayers a bundle.

Hindsight/Foresight

14's deception

Proposition 14, the agricultural labor relations initiative statute on the November 2 ballot, is deficient on three critical points.

And while proponents of Prop. 14 will claim a "no" vote is a denial of free access between workers and unions and the right to vote, those who READ the initiative will learn the issue is whether existing law will remain in the budgetary domain of elected representatives.

The initiative is flawed for the following three reasons:

(1) It is inflexible. The initiative prevents the state legislature from making changes which Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., legislators and current members of the Agricultural Labor Relations Board have indicated will have to be made — to fulfill the needs of employers, employees and the labor unions.

(2) Section 3 of the initiative says the Legislature "shall appropriate such amounts to the ALRB as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this part." This is known as "blank check" financing. Opponents of Prop. 14 claim the ALRB "grossly overspent its 1975-76 budget in less than six months" — which could lead to cuts in other state programs should the same situation reoccur.

(3) The initiative makes the access rule a PERMANENT PART of the law. This rule is still under judicial challenge in the U.S. Supreme Court.

But what might a "no" vote on Prop. 14 take away.

Perusal of the arguments "for" and "against," as well as the rebuttals, shows that a "no" vote will take NOTHING of any substance away from the farm workers.

Farm workers already have the right to vote for the union representation of their choice.

What the argument, as authored by Cesar Chavez (President, United Farm Workers of America, AFL-CIO), Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally and Assemblyman Richard Alatorre is really saying is "we want a complete free hand to organize, bargain and strike, using as much of the taxpayers money as is necessary."

The pro-14 argument in the voters pamphlet virtually says the above "The farm workers' only alternative was to bypass the politicians in Sacramento and to go directly to you, the people."

What they're asking, then, is for a permanent hold on your wallet while pushing aside our elected representatives.

But Chavez has always lacked the guile of an Emiliano Zapata. He and his co-voter pamphlet authors Dymally and Alatorre have always seemed to suffer from a massive persecution complex.

I believe the goal in agriculture, as it is in most other pursuits, is for labor management to produce, show a profit and see to it that employees are given commensurate pay and favorable working conditions.

To my way of thinking, it is not at all fair to the employer or the employee to allow union organizers to run roughshod "one hour before, one hour during and one hour after" in an attempt to organize anything that moves!

I am quite certain that a farm worker wants the chance to do a day's work for a day's pay and benefits. He should also have the right to follow his own dictates, free of a union organizer or employer constantly hovering over him.

After consideration of the arguments and rebuttals, I believe it in the best interests of ALL to see Prop. 14 defeated.

Letters to The Times

Endorsement

Editor, The Times:

It is amusing that the Valley First Committee (VFC) warns us about ultra liberals, and then endorses John Murphy for County Supervisor. The VFC defines an ultra liberal to be one who throws away the taxpayers' money by "taxing us to death." By this definition, John Murphy is an ultra liberal, because he tried to throw away half a million dollars of our tax money by urging his fellow supervisors to buy an unsuitable parcel of land for five times its appraised value. This land was to have been for an East County Office Center which, by strange coincidence, would have bordered on Mr. Murphy's own property in Pleasanton.

As you recall, the Valley First Committee is predominantly a coalition of big land owners, land speculators, and construction interests who banded together for last Spring's Zone 7 election. They received over half their funding from the Hayward based Herald and News.

LARPD candidates

Editor, The Times:

—Here are some thoughts the taxpayers might like to consider when casting votes for the candidates for the two Livermore Area Recreation and Park District directorships to be decided in November. Front runner Lee Lambert, judging from the amount of press he gets, proposes pumping up the District which he claims is deficient in facilities; his method would be to suck up all the government grants that he and his connections could arrange, and get the maximum tax levy allowed. The levy for LARPD which appears on property tax statements as Livermore Rec Park is already $.644 per $100 of assessed valuation, up $.034 in the past year not to mention the sizeable increase in property assessment laid on taxpayers in the District this year, the Bicentennial of this Nation's birth thru revolution over taxes among other things.

LARPD couldn't get past the voters in two previous attempts to boost its tax take because there was no real need by the taxpayers at large. No one was standing in line to get into the parks. Yeah, the tennis courts, soccer fields, and ball diamonds are in limited supply, but it's not possible to build these special facilities in numbers that will provide access to them at all times without waiting, unless the taxpayer gets soaked plenty...

Let's ask Mr. Lambert to respond to the idea that LARPD provide only the open space, there's plenty now, and let the various organized groups playing in the parks pass the hat among their participants...

And ask Mr. Lambert to explain the origin of those government funds which he feels LARPD is entitled to its fair share of, and which he'll bring to the district. Mr. Lambert, where does government, which doesn't raise enough money now to pay for its cost of operation and spending, get money to return to a District which already has parks in abundance? Count them!

The Sycamore Grove was a perfect example of that. The voters not only rejected funding its purchase, but no one was asking at the LARPD meetings that it be purchased. Instead, the folks north of 580 were trying to get a decent park even then. The 364 acre Grove was purchased for $417,000 with a $250,000 revenue sharing grant of questionable basis since no real matching funds were put up, and an obligation on the District taxpayers to pay off a $167,000 note. But for this deal, the Corporation that sold the land would likely have had to dedicate it for park useage when land it still holds next to the Grove was to be developed. So, the land could well have been free when it was really needed. Re-election candidate Marlin POUND had a hand in this nearly half a million dollar goof, as I consider it; and Ernie Rodriguez was for it and a bigger LARPD empire last election when he ran, which incidentally was the last time I saw him at a LARPD meeting and I've attended more than a few.

So, that leaves us voters with the remaining two candidates who just might start really giving the taxpayers some control over the LARPD tax gobble and beat some of the stuffin' out of it. Sooner or later it's gonna happen that the taxpayers at large get fed up with that turkey.

Additional "Letters to The Times" appear on page 14.

round the town

After a long Saturday spent "in seminar" at the Hilton Hotel close by SF Airport, I am able to report to you on the following:

1. Libel and slander are very big in the publishing and broadcasting biz, and getting bigger;
2. The attorneys who specialize in same are urbane, well spoken and handsomely attired. They are also expensive.

3. The aspiring publisher of the future had best go to law school, and skip those classes in newsprint purchasing and typesetting.

It is a very heady world, where the urbane attorneys and the bright young liberals meet. And when they clash, the shock waves are felt in your living room.

The California Trial Lawyers Association made certain we had the best of both — lawyer and challenger. The man who defended Charles Manson and family was there. So was the fellow who defended Look Magazine in its ongoing trouble with Mr. Joseph Alioto.

A fellow who "has often sued Herb Caen, and with success" gave us his side of the very lucrative libel action. Then the president of the Conference of California Judges had his say ... about "the need for better relations between the bench and the press."

Judge Fretz has even published a handbook on the subject, to guide jurists through the pitfalls of "Prior Restraint" ... which news people prefer to call "The Gag Rule."

There were about 100 of us ... working press, professors of law and students of law ... assembled at the SF conference. A similar number had gathered the Saturday before in Los Angeles. The panel, in each instance, was impressive.

So was the information they conveyed, in seven hours of non-stop delivery and debate. The tragedy is that those most concerned with all this were not present ... the readers who demand the news, the people whose rights are being tested, Americans who might soon find their constitution changed as never before.

For what happened to Charles Manson in the well-publicized weeks before his trial, what occurred in Fresno when those four newsmen were jailed, and what is behind those TV News references to "that Nebraska case" or "Bill Farr and the California Shield Law" ... all these add up to "one of the most difficult constitutional problems faced by this nation since our founding fathers set out to guarantee us freedom."

The problem is in the First and the Sixth amendments to that Constitution. In the First Amendment, your right to a "free press" is clearly and boldly set forth. In the Sixth Amendment, the Constitution guarantees each and every citizen "a fair trial." In recent years those two "freedoms" have been in conflict as never before.

It is a conflict that has confused jurists, stirred editorial writers and commentators to wordy wisdom, and it has encouraged more than one reporter to accept jail rather than "disclose my news source."

The Supreme Court of the land has tackled the problem, and found itself far short of any all-wise solution. In fact, what the liberal justices of the Warren Court had set forth is now being changed by "narrower rulings" from the more conservative members of Richard Nixon persuasion.

When this clash brought Daniel Schor in conflict with a Congressional investigative committee, that committee backed down, rather than risk a constitutional challenge over a reporter's right to "secret" national papers.

A few recent Bay Area cases come closer to home. A prominent San Francisco hostess was interviewed on Channel 2 about her lively "Party Girl" pursuits. To enliven the show, a "call girl" was invited to share that same telecast. When TV Guide reported on the program, their headline followed the prominent SF hostesses' name with — "from Party Girl to Call Girl." Unfortunately, the headline writer failed to punctuate that statement with a question mark, and the prominent SF hostess was to win $150,000 in damages.

The man who possibly saved President Ford's life by deflecting the arm of a would-be assassin during Ford's 1975 visit to San Francisco, is now suing Herb Caen because his own private life, and his sexual preference, were publicized along with his new-found fame.

"When does a 'private person' become a 'public person?' What portions of a 'private life' are subject to 'public scrutiny?'" These are questions being asked by attorneys for the nation's biggest news publications; and they are concerns for even the smallest of suburban newspapers. As with doctors' malpractice, the final decision could decide the ability of many smaller publications to survive ... even as Saturday Evening Post was almost brought to its knees by an Alabama football coach's successful claim to damages.

You will be exposed to a new chapter in "Free Press versus Private Rights and a Fair Trial" in January, when the California Legislature considers constitutional amendments guaranteeing a "Shield" for all working news persons, and their news sources. That Legislative action could wind up as a major ballot proposition in 1977. It promises to be one of the liveliest, most controversial debates over "freedom" in California history.

To The Times —

Care of Pat Kennedy:

This is to thank you for your time and creativity in developing the story about the Hotline program and fund raising event.

We also appreciate the space given us in coverage. As we provide valley-wide services, coverage is important in reaching all residents.

It is always a pleasure to work with you. Your attitude is refreshing and your accuracy in reporting indicates sensitivity and excellent listening skills. As some parts of our program are considered "controversial" by some, I find it particularly pleasing to know that information and quotations represent what is actually done and said, and is not confused by out-of-context reporting.

Thank you again for the article and your skills.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Partnership situations could be fortunate today, provided you don't try to upstage your teammate. There's room in the limelight for both of you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Your talents and capabilities can provide a generous return today. Perform to the fullest. You'll see what I mean.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Others receive you with open arms today, particularly socially. The more you enjoy yourself, the more you'll captivate the crowd.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Concentrate on the end game today when you decide what you seek to accomplish. The methods will come to you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

If there's an acquaintance you want to see blossom into a friend, entertain him at home. He will warm up to you more quickly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

This is a day when you'll reap the rewards for your past actions. If you truly tried, your gains will be substantial; otherwise, they'll be minimal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Be mindful of past experiences in plotting your course today. It is not the time to let those with less savvy do your thinking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Don't hesitate to ask one you've helped to do you a favor. This person would welcome the chance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Today, your diplomacy and tact extricates others from trying situations. They'll deeply appreciate it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

You stand tall in the eyes of others today. The way you conduct yourself inspires others to imitate you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Like the old song says — "Let yourself go and relax" today. Give your batteries a much-needed recharging.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Seeds you planted are about to bear fruit. Someone is going to try to repay a kindness you thought was forgotten.

Your Birthday

Oct. 13, 1976

Activity in both mental and physical areas lies ahead for you this year. The over-all effects will make you a more well-rounded individual.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand reached us from an Oregon reader. It seems that he played five diamonds and went down one. This was after the opponents led a heart to the ace, a heart back to the king and a ruff of the third heart.

North felt that with only eight high-card points, South should have responded one notrump, not two diamonds. But after he had responded two diamonds, he should have passed the three-spade bid.

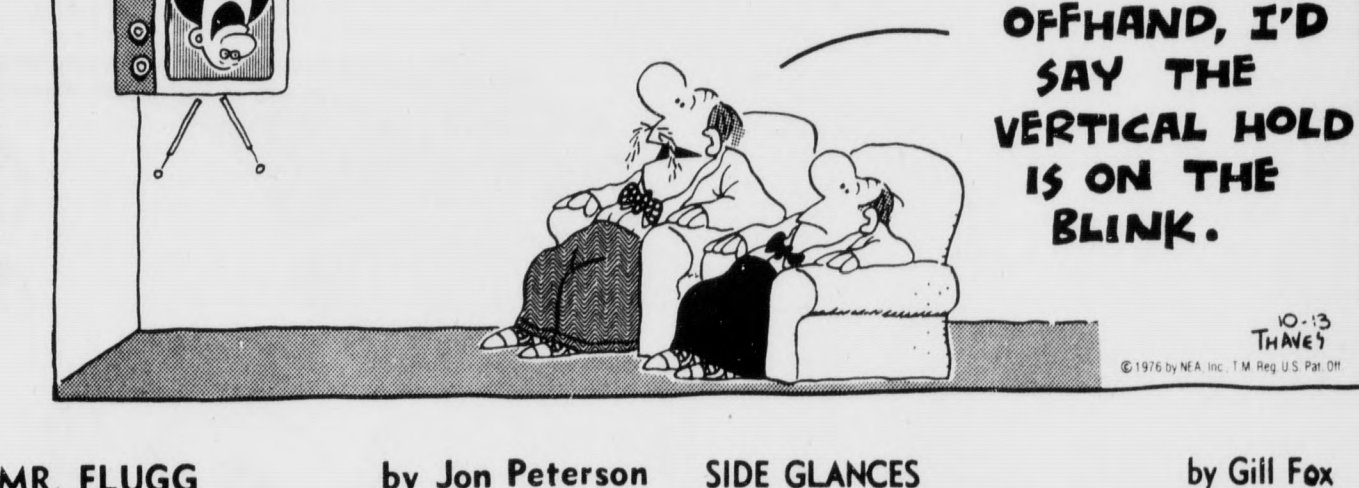

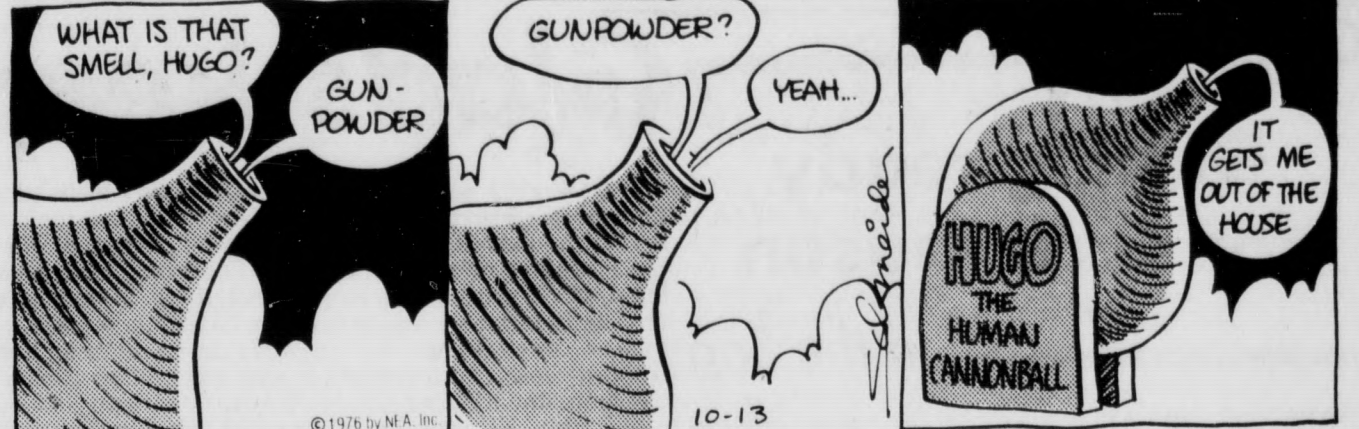

Three spades would have made, since North would lose just two hearts and two spades.

The hand brings up some interesting points in bidding.

A California reader wants to know the meaning of an opening five-spade bid.

It has no meaning in normal bidding. Someone once suggested it should ask partner to bid six with the ace or king of the suit, but the bid never took hold.

Getting ready for duck season

In the Bag

Waterfowl season is just around the corner. Now is the time to repaint those decoys; check the decoy strings and weights; and look for cracks in your favorite calls.

Are all the buttons on your hunting jacket? Do you need to patch your waders; or even get new ones?? Packing mosquito repellent? Have you got your duck stamp? Important!

A few other reminders: the boat, the dog, the gun, the shells, a flashlight — it's dark out on those levees and tule patches.

This has been predicted as a good year for duck hunters. Check out the hunting regulations. So now you're all set to enjoy the day, no matter what. Leave a few birds for me!

Walt Hidalgo, the determined bow hunter, spent last week in the area around McCall, Idaho. He reports the weather was warm and dry. The elk wouldn't move out of the willow bog thickets, so Walt decided it was time to go in after them.

He spotted a couple of bulls about 150 yards away — too far away for a shot. He tried bugling, but they didn't respond. Then the bulls disappeared in the bogs, and Walt sat down for a sandwich lunch. About that time a big bull was seen a short distance away.

"I felt it was now or never," said Walt. So he let fly an arrow, but didn't stop the elk. Walt's hunting buddy was nearby, though, and came to the rescue. Between Walt and his friend, they got a fine 5-point bull.

Walt says he was not too interested in bringing all that meat home (over 400 pounds!). So he told his friend that he would prefer to have the horns and a small amount of meat. His buddy agreed, but he couldn't help saying, "Hey, how you going to eat those horns?"

Walt will make his own plaque cast to mount the horns; quite a trophy for his wall.

Nick Stumpf, new president of the "Vaqueros Del Mar," states their annual banquet and awards program will be held Saturday evening, October 16, at the Eagles Hall, 527 N. Livermore Ave., in Livermore.

The banquet is open to the public. Call Nick at 447-8679, or Gene Tanaka at 443-2135 for information and tickets. No tickets will be sold at the door. Happy hour starts at 6:30; dinner at 8:00; live music at 9:30 until?

The annual awards will be given for those who get the largest fish, abalone, and scallop; to the best photographer for picture above or below water.

Nick says the next big dive will probably be Thanksgiving weekend up at Van Damme State Park in Mendocino county. Call him if you're interested in Vaqueros Del Mar.

Pat Lathrop, weekend range-master at the local rod and gun club, says he's having a great time seeing the many potential hunters come out to sight in their rifles.

He observes that some want that rifle to shoot at least within an inch, plus or minus. Then there are others that want to shoot into a 5-shot group that's less than an inch; but these decide "it's too accurate a rifle to take hunting!"

The rifle and pistol range is open every day except Thursday. The trap and skeet range is open every Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The next, and last PITA shoot for this year will be held October 24 at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club.

AV's Smith breaks mark

Amador Valley's Curtis Smith set a new boys frosh-soph course record as the Don underclassmen topped Dublin, 15-48, Monday afternoon in East Bay Athletic League cross-country action.

Smith toured the two-mile layout in 10:15 to set the mark and beat second-place team mate Chris Waters by over a minute. The Amador varsity crunched the Gaels, 18-41, as Mark Kendall and Mario da Silva captured first and second for the Dons.

Meanwhile, it was family day in the Monte Vista-Livermore meet.

The Mustangs forfeited the boys varsity race, leaving in up to the girls to provide the show and the Cowgirls Cheri Williams led her team to a top-four sweep with a first-place time of 9:00.

Bruce Williams found the going a bit tougher, but nipped MV's Linden Meikle by one second for first place.

In the only other varsity meet not already reported, Bruce Rogers and Bruce Fossett took one-two for Foothill but the Falcons

Glads keep Vikings winless, 6-1

HAYWARD — Chabot College soccer captain Kelly Clark found out that having a brother on the same team isn't always a boon as the Gladiators took an otherwise uneventful, 6-1, Golden Gate Conference win from the visiting Diablo Valley Vikings on a still, steamy, afternoon here yesterday.

Moments after the opening kick-off of the second half, with the Glads already up 2-1, the former Amador Valley High School player got tangled with DVC's Jim Moylan and landed heavily atop him.

A late-arriving referee handed Kelly a red ticket entitling him to a trip to the bench without benefit of a warning. Chabot coach John Shaw theorized that the official may have been befuddled by the presence of two Clarks on the field.

"Maybe he confused Kelly with his brother (Casey, who had already been handed a yellow caution card)," Shaw said. "Losing our captain kind of hurt us, but it made out team mad."

"I feel badly for Kelly," he added. But neither could feel too badly about the win, which got the Glads back to their usual winning ways after Chabot had suffered only its sixth-ever defeat Friday — 1-0 to Foothill in Los Altos Hills. "We needed this one," admitted Shaw, whose team is scrambling for third place in the GGC at present. "We played conservatively at Foothill, we were looking for a tie — and had one for 75 minutes."

Times SPORTS

"Now we're going to play more offensively; open things up a little," he said looking ahead to Friday's game with DeAnza, a team he admits is breathing down the Glads' neck and could give them trouble.

Which is a gift Chabot heaped on the Vikings with a vengeance yesterday. The Glads assaulted Vike goalie Kevin Stenson with a 25 shot attack while DVC could get off only nine.

Stenson did well to save 15, but Chabot's offense did better.

Two minutes into the game, Livermore High School grad Kenny Watts took a pass from Fahad Al-Othman and made it 1-0. But DVC's Scott Frudden, taking a pass from Bob Turi, tied it after an indirect kick.

However, Kurt Rohren's conversion of a Tim Wade corner kick gave Chabot the lead for good 15 minutes into the contest.

Seconds after the controversial Clark incident, Mike Kury started the second half scoring, reversing his dribble and slipping a 12-yard left-footer past DVC backs Dave Casanave and Rich Horen.

Watts added a second goal when he lost Moylan with a slight feint, kept the ball on a two-on-one and knocked an 18-yarder into the left corner of the cage.

Twenty-two minutes from the end, Al-Othman prompted Shaw to clear the Glad bench when he powered a 32-yarder over Stenson's right shoulder and into the cage.

Dan Biggie finished the scoring when his roller scaled the back of a fallen DVC defender and slid off and into the net.

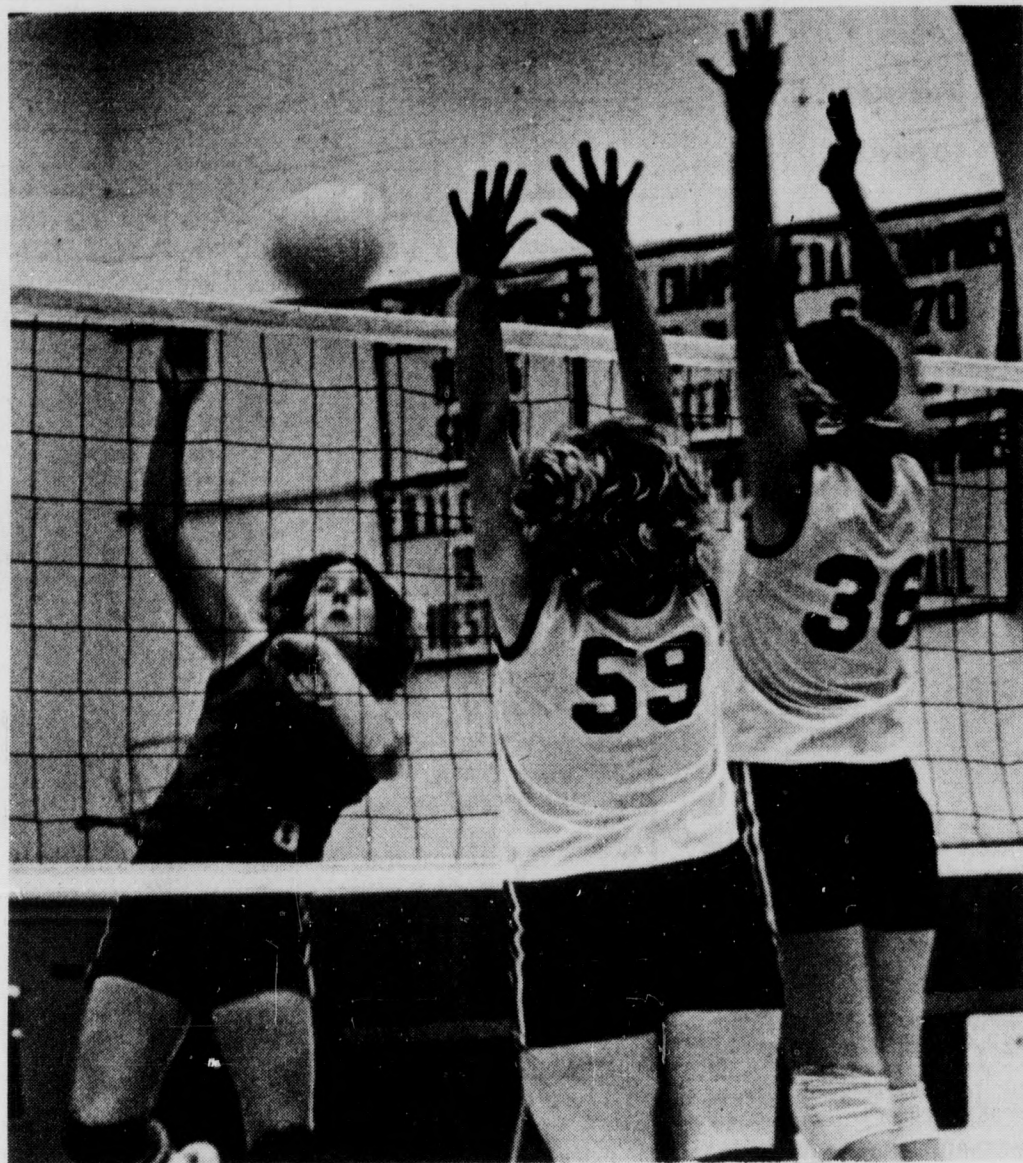

Chabot out - corner-kicked DVC, 8-0, while starting goalkeeper Dave Schneider had six saves and substitute Armando Cordoba, two.

Clark, meanwhile, shook off any harsh feelings about being deprived of nearly 40 minutes playing time.

"I guess when your biorythms are down, they're really down," he mused.

Evidently the Vikings were also showing a downcurve as the loss leaves them winless in GGC games this season.

Round Hill ready for LPGA return?

ALAMO — The on-again, off-again, Ladies Professional Golf Association event at Round Hill Country Club here appears to be on again — and this time for good.

General Manager Jay Bedsworth said yesterday that a petition came in from the members of the club and it looked like they would approve the tournament's return by over a 100-vote margin.

The LPGA Lincoln-Mercury Open had been put on at Round Hill but the event was dropped after the 1973 tournament. It was less than an overwhelming success and was not mourned by Round Hill members.

However, Bedsworth returned to the club last year and immediately began working to round up a sponsor and bring the LPGA back to Round Hill in 1977.

He convinced Sara Coventry Jewelry of New York to put up $100,000, talked to the LPGA and only had to get approval from the club members to go ahead for sure next year.

At first it appeared that all of Bedsworth's work would go for naught. Only about 300 of the 500 eligible voters responded on the original poll and the count fell four short of the necessary 251.

However, a petition came in the last two days with over 260 signatures in favor of the event, "and another hundred committed after that," reported Bedsworth happily.

Opposition to the tournament came originally because some club members feel the tour takes too much of their playing time. According to Bedsworth and Head Greenskeeper George Cherolis, only five days will be required to run the affair — one day for practice, one day for the pro-am and the three days of the tournament itself.

There is one formality remaining, however. There must be a board meeting with at least 25 members present. Bedsworth sounded confident that the board would accept the petition and let the tourney go ahead.

Lou Renaud, who started the signature drive, added that the members only approved the tourney for three years. If, after two years, it becomes too much for the club and the members, then there will be an option to stop the tournament.

Calender sparks Gael win

Joanne Calender glanced a hard spike off the hands of Livermore's front line for the winning point to give Dublin a frantic 17-15, 7-15, 17-15 over Livermore in East Bay Athletic League girls' volleyball action yesterday in Livermore.

In another key EBAL match Amador Valley stunned powerful Granada 15-12, 15-3 on the winners' courts.

Dublin, in upping their league record to 6-1, took sole possession of first place while the hard-luck Pokes dropped their second three-set loss in one week.

Calender spurred the Gaels to a narrow victory in the first set, placing two solid spikes to win the set as the teams were deadlocked 15-15. Livermore rebounded in the second set and rallied to smash the Gaels, 15-7. Paula Ng scored five points for the Pokes in the set.

In the decisive third set, the Pokes trailed Dublin 11-8 before rallying to take a 14-13 lead behind the spirited play of Denise Bond and Kim Bohannon.

Livermore, after the Gaels tied the game on Alicia Crumpler's powerful serve, took a 15-14 lead on Bohannon's soft-placed shot after Dublin's previous volley hit the net.

Livermore fluttered away a chance to win the match when the midline failed to set up a good third shot. After a simple volley, the Gaels took advantage of key Livermore mistakes and served for three straight points to take the victory. Linda Finco served for all three points.

In the Amador Valley upset of Granada Carolyn Hill scored eight points to lead the winners. Jayne Kuhns was outstanding at spiking the ball as was Carmen Menmacon.

Spartans regroup for LB

SAN JOSE — They way the San Jose State University football team is playing, the only bowl it'll make will be in pottery class.

After breezing through its first three games, the Spartans dropped their next three, the latest a 36-30 disappointment Saturday against the University of New Mexico.

"No, the season is not lost," insisted former Dublin High School star Rayford Roberson. "We still have the league to win."

The "league," the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, could be decided this Saturday at Spartan Stadium here when unbeaten Long Beach State attempts to stay that way.

"Their a good, tough, team," according to Roberson. "But we'll be ready for them. I want another championship ring."

In the New Mexico game, Roberson was credited with eight tackles, upping his season total to 45. He is third on the team in that department, only four behind leader James Hawkins.

At a Monday press conference, coach Lynn Stiles said, "Rayford played the best game since he's been here."

Rayford, a sophomore, immodestly concurred, "Yeah, I though I played a good game against them."

But, Rayford added, "Those penalties killed us."

Oh, really? San Jose was hit 12 flags for 109 yards, bringing its season total to 61 for 550 — an average of 91.6 per game.

Against the Lobos Saturday, the Spartans fell behind 36-23 with six minutes to go. They moved the ball to the New Mexico three yard line before being cursed by the ghost of football past.

On first down, quarterback Steve DeBerg was dumped for a 15-yard loss. DeBerg then completed a pass to the Lobo six, before an incomplete set up a fourth and goal.

DeBerg located receiver Gary Maddocks in the end zone for an apparent touchdown but a motion penalty nullified the score.

On the next play, a screen pass for a touchdown was cancelled when a Spartan was down field illegally. DeBerg then threw an incomplete pass, virtually assuring the Spartans of a third consecutive loss.

"Penalties have definitely been the main factor in our losses to New Mexico and Stanford," the 6-3, 190-pound Roberson said.

But, it was a Lobo running play that was most frustrating for Roberson.

"Wilson (Faumina) told us to watch for the draw. Sure enough, that's what it was and the dude ran 53 yards before Gerald Small caught him."

"Can you believe it? We knew the play, but couldn't stop it," Roberson mused.

He added, "We've got to play better defense. We're depending too much on the offense scoring a lot of points."

Long Beach State, after sending Terry Metcalf to the St. Louis Cardinals and Herb Lusk to the Philadelphia Eagles, boasts huge Mark Bailey.

Fullback Bailey, 6-3, 220 pounds, has been tabbed "the best player in his position in the country" by Long Beach coach Wayne Howard.

But the prospect of facing Bailey didn't faze the confident Roberson.

"No problem," Rayford said. "We can't lose at home." — by Rich Freedman

CINCINNATI — Ken Griffey chopped a little bounce toward first base for a bases-loaded single to drive in Cincinnati's third run in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the Reds a sensational 7-6 comeback triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday for their second straight National League championship.

The Reds seemed headed for a fourth game Wednesday night. Then, with lightning suddenness, their big bats exploded. George Foster and Johnny Bench, the first two batters in the bottom of the ninth, crashed massive home runs to left field and the game was tied.

With the three-game sweep of the best-of-five series, the Reds became the first team in the National League to achieve that feat twice in a row. They did it last year by taking three straight from Pittsburgh, then beat Boston in a dramatic seven-game World Series.

During the opening matches of yesterday's East Bay Athletic League tennis crucial between Livermore and Granada, Matador coach Lee Williford shifted nervously on the side. "This could be a close match," he said.

Pop Warner

Knights crush Condors

Exploding for 26 points in the first half the Dublin Knights ran over the Eureka Condors 39-6 in a Tri-Valley Pop Warner contest last weekend.

The Knights rolled up 298 yards in the Junior Bantam Division contest, allowing Eureka just 83 total yards.

Cam Whitty paced the winners with two touchdowns and an extra-point conversion. He scored one TD on an eight-yard run and another on a 45-yard spurt. Bill Hayes, Gary Anderson each had one touchdown. Greg McBride added two scores.

Troy Hager, Steve Piliotti, Larry Abreu, Rick Brower, Kevin Grady and Mark Dwyer stood out on defense for the winners.

In other Pop Warner action the Livermore Vikings shutout the Pleasant Hill Rebels 20-0, the Dublin Lancers stopped the Napa Redskins 20-0 and in a Pee Wee Division contest the Dublin Squires rolled over the Napa Redskins 23-0.

The Vikings used a strong defense to stop the Rebels.

Pleasant Hill was held to one yard rushing and one first down. Chuck Soto, Kevin Trudeau and Cliff Pope starred for the winners. Kevin Trudeau scored one touchdown and threw for two others; to Pope and Mark Sanchez.

Trudeau led the winners with 119 yards rushing and Sanchez added 75. Kevin Trudeau T completed five passes for 64 yards.

Chris Elbert ran for 153 yards to spark the Lancers. The Redskins were held to 74 yards total.

John Petlansky, Ron Staub, Dennis Curtin, Troy Va Dleet Ken McNeil and Jim Wray all did well for the winners.

The Squires used a balanced attack in their victory over the Pee Wee Redskins.

John Rasmussen ran 31 yards for one touchdown and had 45 yards in all. Greg Leatherman led the winners with 77 yards on the ground. Chris Lusvardi added 44. The Squires had 234 yards rushing and 60 passing. Napa could get only one first down.

Steve Pate and Doug McNeil led the defense with eight tackles each. Steve Bustamente and Jerry Birr also starred.

Last of two parts

Editor's note: Nicias P. Reckas, a semi-retired salesman who lives in Pleasanton, is spending his second autumn in his native Greece searching for clues to the storied lost continent of Atlantis.

His theory, shared by many archaeologists, is that the ancient Minoan civilization was suddenly wiped out by the explosion of a volcano which caused devastating tidal waves in the Aegean.

In a letter to The Times, the local explorer outlines his findings. The first part of his report appeared in yesterday's paper; here is the second part:

Archaeologically speaking, there are few ancient graves. Apparently at the start of the tremors the populace boarded all available sea transportation to avoid the anger of the volcano. But it was too late; nature's fury engulfed everything and everyone to extinction within its reach — and it was a long and inescapable reach.

Before the eruption and tidal wave, the populace of Knossos, Crete, 70 miles west of my pension, were going about their daily chores.

True, they had experienced tremors before but these were taken at all times as displeasure of the gods with chances of appeasement.

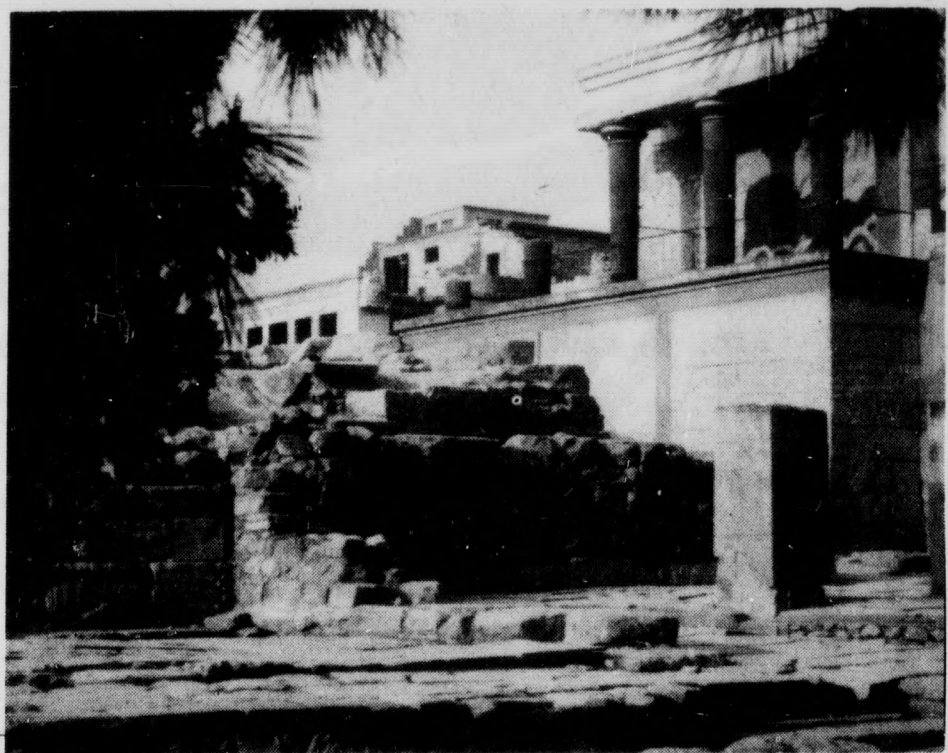

The gardeners on the palace grounds were diverting the flow of water from one section of the huge and lush park to another; a park surpassing in beauty the modern gardens of Versailles, the trees and flowers were abundant and beautiful this year.

A group of merchantmen and envoys, mostly Egyptian businessmen, were entering the northside entrance to the palace. They would walk up a graduated ramp to a pillared portico whose walls contain a fresco — relief of a charging bull — a diplomatic point to visitors of the strength and invincibility of this kingdom.

From here, they were escorted to their apartments with hot and cold running water. Later the official guides were to take the visitors through the four-storied Grand Staircase with its supporting pillars and lighted wells. This was a marvel beyond anything the Egyptians had seen in their own palaces.

The king and queen, hearing of the arrival of the distinguished guests, left their Small Palace, two miles away, and entered the Grand Palace grounds through the Processional Road. This avenue linked the two palaces with access to a main highway leading to Amnisos, the port of Knossos and to the rest of the Minoan cities. The roadway is the oldest in Europe and is in excellent condition today. Several Minoan women, fashionably dressed, promenade coquettishly with indescribable grace in the central courtyard of the palace. Their corsets hug the waist into slimness but abundantly rounding the hips, while half-cupped brassieres, aided by tight-fitting corsets, accentuate the bare bosoms.

Atlantis — in an instant there was nothing

The bell-like dresses are long and flounced by tiers of ribbons. The women's lips are painted a vivid red. Their eyes look abnormally large because of dark pencil make-up. Hair is shoulder length (probably a wig) with short curls decorating the forehead.

The populace, living in unbelievable luxury and convenience, for the age, has no social phobias.

Then it happened! A deafening sound and a huge black mushroom cloud appeared to the north of Knossos in the direction of Thera. The mountain at Santorini had dropped into a red-hot void and exploded from the generating gases.

In 14 minutes the tidal wave created was to reach and wipe out these happy people and their advanced civilization for once and for all.

They didn't know what struck them! The human toll of more than 100,000 lives virtually wiped out the Kingdom of Minoes forever.

One thousand years later, Solon, an emissary of Plato, visited Egypt where he was wine and dined by Egyptian priests.

The Egyptians of antiquity having had commercial intercourse with King Minos and knowing of the terrain, its high and sophisticated civilization, and the tragic disappearance, recorded and stored these events in the Temple archives. This information was imparted to Solon.

Solon returned to Athens with growing accounts of his talks with the Egyptian priests and the events as narrated and expanded. And Plato's fertile imagination, nurtured by these facts, gave birth to a fabled continent.

"In this island of Atlantis there was a great and wonderful empire... they went on constructing their temples and palaces and harbors and docks. They bridged over the zones of the sea which surrounded the ancient metropolis, making a road to and from the royal Palace... built in the habitation of the god... until they made the building a marvel to behold for size and for beauty..."

"But afterwards there occurred violent earthquakes and floods; and in a single day and night of misfortune... all men in a body sank into the earth, and the island of Atlantis... disappeared into the depths of the sea."

Diggings at the Palace of Knossos and at the island of Santorini prove Plato to be correct — all but for the name! My quest for the Lost Continent of Atlantis is at an end.

Recipe for holiday ornaments

LIVERMORE — The recipe for salt dough Christmas ornaments will be given during a special class of Wanda Sanford.

Students in the class, sponsored by Livermore Area Recreation and Parks District, will be involved in two sessions of three hours each. Class One will run from 9 a.m. to noon, Nov. 2 and 9.

Class Two will run from 7 to 10 p.m. the same dates.

Classes are limited to 10 students each and will cost $6.50 per person.

Registration begins Oct. 15 at LARPD offices, 71 Trevarno Road. Classes will be in the children's room of the Carnegie Building.

Water fitness available

PLEASANTON — New sessions of slim and trim, a water exercise class, and other swimming activities are under way at the Pleasanton Aquatic Center.

Park candidate wants citizen participation

Ernie Rodriguez, a candidate for director of Livermore Area Recreation and Parks District, has called for formation of a citizens committee to evaluate the needs of recreational programs offered to people in the LARPD area.

Rodriguez.

"I realize the importance of LARPD concerning itself with other agencies," he added, "but I believe we must begin devoting more time to the citizens of Livermore who participate and use the park department's facilities."

"The school district had its needs assessment committee, the city had the citizens general plan committee, and I believe it would be a benefit to the park district to obtain a wide spectrum of citizen input into the type and quantity of recreational programs LARPD should offer to the public," said

He noted that a group of volunteer citizens could aid in a community survey to help determine the type of programs needed.

"Once you can offer the people what they want, you have increased the possibility for a passage of a tax override or bond election," he said.

Air task force

SAN FRANCISCO — Smog board members, fearing a new task force might duplicate study already being done, delayed action on a look at the economic impacts of air pollution control.

The task force, proposed at the last meeting of Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors, stems from the denial of construction and operating permits for the first phase of the proposed $500 million Dow Chemical Co. petrochemical complex near Pittsburg and Collinsville.

Persons interested in the classes still may join by coming to class.

Slim and trim sessions are scheduled for Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Sharron Vahlstrom, Georgeann Merrill, Sue McAllister and Dolores Bengtson will teach the classes.

Slim and trim exercises all parts of the body including the respiratory system and it also tones muscles. Morning session is full but space is available in the 1 p.m. session. Fee is $12.

Adult swim lessons are held at 11 a.m. and offer swimming instruction for all levels, beginner to advanced. Fee is $12.

Swim and stay fit sessions continue on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from noon to 1 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday. This is an open swimming program, but record keeping for lap swimming is available. The Red Cross 50 mile swim program is also available. Staff will assist in setting goals and developing a personal swimming program for anyone who wishes it.

Admission to evening swimming is by swim pass only because no cashier is present at night. The passes may be obtained during regular office hours at the main recreation office, 200 Bernal Ave. or at the swim center, Black Avenue near Santa Rita Road, from noon to 1 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Valley citizens write on campaign '76 issues

Plan commissioner

Editor, The Times:

Since I am being considered for the Planning Commissioner, I would like to clarify a few facts of interests and also my qualifications.

First my home town is Duquesne, Pa., a small town of 21,000 population, with a good business (sic) district (old timers) after a Planning Commission, with the aid of the Federal's they decided to remove all the buildings, all three blocks of a small, but profitable business center. The old timers moved to the suburbs and settled in new locations their faithful followed them to the hills. Three years later new buildings, high rents, but no businesses (either old timers or new). The town is now about 8,000 in population, with problems they will never resolve and a deserted new business section, part of it is now a parking lot for U.S. Steel Plant. This is planning?

I was a member of an Independent Democratic Business Club (12 years) in Lutherville and Towson Md. As a group we watch over the zoning and planning of our county center & city. Of Baltimore County. Also was active with the optimist Clubs of Md. (14 years) as an officer and working member, for the youth programs, including coaching sports. I am a graduate of University of Pittsburgh, major in Biology, minors in Humanities and Sociology, holding a secondary education credentials to teach in Penna., Md. and Delaware, (teaching in each of the states), have same credentials for California (have substituted in Alameda County including Livermore Schools, time permitting). Have 15 years in management, including Bethlehem Steel, also M.B.A. course at John Hopkins, Baltimore, MD. Have California community college level credentials to instruct business and supervision (management) seeking an opening at either Chabot or Peralta, part time basis.

When interviewed by the council, if memory serves me, I suggested that the city adopt a pay as you go plan for the new businesses not a lump sum in their first year of endeavor and profits than could help the new member pay his dues.

We have lived in Livermore for three years, De and me are active members of the Mariners Club, Presbyterian Church, my daughter Caroline attends Joe Mitchell School and I have sold steel in the northern California areas, seeing a lot of improvements and vice versa in some of our surrounding communities. As for Livermore and its future I plan to be here, as for planning, my first visit to California was as a member of the U.S. Navy, I was stationed at Camp Shoemaker. I knew Livermore When? and then: It has come a long way.

Raymond vs. yard

Editor, The Times:

A recent letter to your paper which was critical of Valerie Raymond reeks of male chauvinism and "newspeak." So what if she's got a stack of old campaign signs in her yard? Didn't the writer ever hear of recycling and re-using? Ecology doesn't necessarily mean manicured lawns and neat concrete. It means making the fullest use of what one has.

Lurking behind the writer's words was the implied question, "why isn't Valerie staying home and tending her yard like a nice little housewife?"

As for me, I'm glad she's out there digging for political truths instead of weeds. What's most important is how Valerie Raymond will perform as a public servant. I strongly believe that she is a person of great integrity who will be the best choice for supervisor.

Raymond vs. club

Editor, The Times:

I feel I must express my personal view of remarks made about Mrs. Raymond.

Carter's son stumps county

Leshner News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Jimmy Carter's son, Jeff, stumped the county Monday urging voters to cast their ballots for his father.

Jeff, 24, and his wife, Annette, were greeted warmly in Martinez by labor leaders, and one youngster in the audience was particularly thrilled to have Carter autograph his jar of peanuts.

The young Carters were escorted through the county by Congressman George Miller, D-Martinez, who expressed appreciation for their visit to the George Miller Jr. Center West in Richmond, the school for severely handicapped children named for the congressman's father.

"It was more than a symbolic visit," Miller said. "It shows the strong commitment Jimmy Carter has to rehabilitation services, as he showed as governor of Georgia."

At the Central Labor Council headquarters in Martinez, the Carters were greeted by CLC secretary-treasurer Tony Cannata, county Building and Construction Trades Council president Lou Thomas, Labor Health and Welfare Council manager Lou Martin, and other local labor leaders.

Cannata expressed labor's "strong commitment" to Carter. He has been named by Miller as a presidential elector who will cast a Carter vote in the Electoral College.

From Martinez, the Carters went to the U.S. Steel plant in Pittsburg to greet workers leaving their shifts.

He said he has covered many such events in 22 states in the last few weeks, and enjoys meeting the people.

"Most of the workers are in a hurry to get home and don't want to stop, but there are always some who want to talk and ask questions," he said.

"Their questions are mainly about the environment, the jobs effort, what we're doing on unemployment," he added.

Pleasanton Area Democratic Club, Mrs. Raymond doesn't need pity or endorsement. Mrs. Raymond stated without the support of your club or the support of the special interest of any group such as yours. Mrs. Raymond achieved her position and mandate from the people of the first district. Mr. Murphy didn't win the majority needed at the ballot box. The people of the first district have a choice now of a person who will not have the obligation to address herself to the special interest groups or the Pleasanton Area Demo Club ...

I find it interesting that all of a sudden at election time Mr. Murphy is so concerned with our taxes. Where has he been in suppressing taxes of the first district. People of the district are not going to buy the position of the Pleasanton Area Demo Club about their endorsement of Mr. Murphy because of the old cliché 'they believe with his experience and intelligence he will be the best representative. Come On! Take a look at taxes, the fairground, a rapid transit that doesn't exist but we pay for ...

This is the same old rhetoric we always receive. Mr. Murphy better start looking for new real-estate listings because his creditability is evaporating.

LARPD candidate

Editor, The Times:

As a candidate for the LARPD Board of Directors, I sincerely feel I am qualified to run for one of the two Board seats this November. I have been deeply involved with the Parks and Recreation Department since moving to Livermore in 1958. ... I had the benefit of part time employment for LARPD for a ten-year period ending in 1972.

I was the founder of the Livermore Soft Ball Association. As President of the group I worked closely with the LARPD staff in development of Max Baer Paek. We did this at bare minimum cost, by supplying volunteer labor in order to set the light standards, erect the back stop, and install the fencing. In addition the Soft Ball Association even paid for the fencing material.

In 1970 and 1971 I spent a year as an appointed representative to the General Master Plan Committee for priorities in Parks and Recreational Facilities. I also served on the Financial Committee which formulated the spending priorities during this period ...

... I have been very involved in Youth Programs through the Granada Little League. Presently I am coach of the Monte Carlo Soccer Team for Youth under 10 years of age.

... I am not only qualified but a sincere Candidate for this Elected Office. I certainly encourage any community minded person to also run for election to this office, for it offers the voter the broadest possible scope of candidates, of course I hope the voters will make me their choice for one of the two contested seats, but that decision is up to them.

Ernie Rodriguez
Livermore

Livermore rec

Editor, The Times:

The recent press release in which I cited the obvious lack of attendance by LARPD candidates (Marlin Pound excepted) at LARPD meetings and related functions will hopefully achieve its intent, to put some excitement and enthusiasm in what has been a very withdrawn race to this point.

After all, I feel the taxpayers of LARPD deserve to see or at least hear the candidates express their views regarding key District issues.

The two men elected on November 2, will comprise 40 percent of a Board of Directors responsible for a budget of nearly $2 million. That's a big responsibility and the citizens must be informed before making their decision at the polls.

Tilden drowning

TILDEN PARK — Corner's deputies have listed as suicide the death of a 36-year-old Berkeley man whose body was found in Tilden Park Monday morning.

Daniel Nelson Pannabecker, 1317 Shattuck Ave., Berkeley, was found floating in Lake Anza in the park between Berkeley and Orinda, deputies said.

San Ramon candidate plans busy schedule

DANVILLE — Claudia Nemir, candidate for the proposed town council that will represent Danville, Alamo and San Ramon if incorporation passes Nov. 2, has scheduled several appearances.

Tonight at 7:30 she will attend AAUW League of Women Voters candidate night at the education center. Oct. 14 she will appear at Walt Disney School in San Ramon at 7:30 p.m. This latter event is being sponsored by the San Ramon Homeowners Association.

Chris Winter will hostess a coffee Oct. 18 at 8 p.m., 718 Dolphin Dr. in Danville. Local residents interested in meeting Nemir may arrange to attend by calling 837-4882.

Nemir will attend a coffee in the Danville Station area Oct. 20 at 10 a.m. in the home of Jo Harberson, 589 Zephyr Circle. For further information call 837-3715.

Also on Oct. 20 the candidate will make an 11:30 a.m. appearance at a coffee in the home of Margy Evans, 944 Forest Lane, Alamo, 837-3436.

Anyone wishing to sponsor a coffee for Claudia Nemir may make an appointment by calling 837-7861.

TOWN NOW group seeks funds

DANVILLE — The TOWN NOW campaign committee, proponents of incorporation of Alamo, Danville and San Ramon, are appealing for funds.

Committee Chairman Beverly Lane said she hoped anyone inside the valley who cared about its future would contribute. She says the TOWN NOW campaign committee is working with a limited budget and lacks the resources of outside interests she claims are fighting against local valley control. She contends those outside interests have a budget of at least $20,000.

She believes these outside interests prefer to have county government in Martinez make decisions for the valley. Lane says it is time for valley residents to decide whether they will be ruled by outsiders or govern themselves.

A contribution may be sent to Taxpayers for Local Control, P.O. Box 845, Danville, Ca. 94526.

Valley horse sense

Las Positas Valley may be disputed territory for humans, but for two horses and a burro it's a nice place to pass a quiet autumn morning, just watching the occasional car go by. The amiable trio were spotted on North Livermore Avenue just north of Interstate 580, at the bucolic gateway to the rolling valley where developer Harlan Geldermann proposed building a city of 50,000. (Times photo by Pat Kennedy)

BART safety meeting topic for today

Leshner News Bureau
OAKLAND — Safety of Bay Area Rapid Transit's operation, plus rail car availability and system reliability will be discussed by BART directors today.

The BART board of directors will hold a special meeting following a 9 a.m. engineering committee meeting today. The meeting will take the place of a meeting that would have been held Thursday.

A majority of BART's directors will be attending an American Public Transit Association convention this week.

In addition, the directors are expected to discuss a study of passengers and promotional programs for the holiday shopping season.

Directors will meet in district headquarters, 800 Madison St., Oakland.

SRV city council would donate time?

DANVILLE — Members of the proposed town council representing Alamo, Danville and San Ramon if incorporation is voted in Nov. 2 would serve without salary according to council candidate Claudia Nemir.

"The study supporting incorporation does not make any provisions for salaries for either the mayor or members of the town council," Nemir noted. "Council members will volunteer their time just as the members of our elected school board volunteer hours and hours of their time."

The lifelong valley resident is firmly committed to the concept of financing town operations without an increase in local property tax rates.

"Under California law we will become eligible for revenues from state and federal sources as an incorporated town," Nemir said. "These revenues include taxes which we already pay; such as, sales taxes, gasoline taxes, motor vehicle fees, etc., and which are collected by the state and will be returned to the town."

"Now, these same taxes are returned to the county and placed in the general fund," Nemir continued. "79 per cent of the annual county budget is allocated to welfare, health care and justice systems. County Administrator Arthur Will recently stated, 'The county is set up to provide services to people in trouble.'"

"Most valley residents are not in trouble—at least not in the sense that Mr. Will had in mind," Nemir concluded.

The longest suspension span in the world, the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge between Staten Island and Brooklyn, N.Y., is 4,260 feet, exceeding San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge by 60 feet.

LARPD hopeful's pledge

Lee R. Lambert, candidate for director to the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District, has issued another in a series of campaign statements on the district's future if he is elected.

"As I have indicated from the beginning of my campaign, if elected to the LARPD Board of Directors, my number one priority will be the completion of parks that have been partially developed and the initiation of development on those not yet started.

"However, in concentrating on development, one must not overlook the question of land acquisition. Should the LARPD discontinue efforts to obtain more land for future park development or should a 'we have enough' attitude prevail?

"As a director, I would be very difficult to convince that any LARPD funds should be expended for land purchase until a considerable amount of development has been accomplished on presently owned or leased property.

"That is not to say, however, I would discourage the continued use of the city park dedication program which calls for two acres of land to be made available by developers for every 100 housing units built.

"Quite the contrary, I would encourage the acquisition of land through that method, so long as it was clear that any development would be limited to that possible with city funds through the park development ordinance or other sources beyond those currently available to LARPD.

"I would also propose the LARPD graciously accept any property that might be made available through gifts or donations whether by other government agencies or individuals, so long as it was subjected to the same development restriction mentioned earlier.

"While land acquisition is low in my priorities, I feel it shouldn't be ignored. It is inevitable that Livermore will someday begin to grow again and when it does we don't want to be caught park-land poor."

Raymond's traffic plan

Valerie Raymond, candidate for the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, promised to work for the early completion of an east-west route through Livermore using Concanon Boulevard.

"I believe that the planned widening of East Avenue is only a temporary solution to the continuing increase of traffic on that street. A better solution is to relieve traffic there by re-routing it elsewhere.

"Plans to extend Concanon Boulevard to take traffic through to Vasco Road have been in the general plan of Livermore in the past and are also incorporated into its current plan. The county should be working with the City of Livermore to see that this traffic problem is solved.

"As supervisor I will push to give highest priority to extending Concanon. With 15,000 residents in the southwest quadrant of the city there is immediate need for direct access to the east side without going into the heart of the city via Fourth Street and East Avenue."

Giersch backs scenic route in Danville

Saving Danville Boulevard as a two-lane, scenic arterial, the goal of numerous organizations in San Ramon Valley, was endorsed last week by Louise Giersch, supervisorial candidate in the fifth district, after a tour of the thoroughfare with local supporters of the rural road concept.

"Danville Boulevard is not only the county's oldest main road, it is one of our most beautiful drives," she said. "With the parallel, six-lane freeway 680 less than a quarter-mile away, I would oppose any widening of this delightful roadway purely for vehicular convenience."

A plan advanced by the county public works department to increase the 60-foot right-of-way to 100 feet was soundly defeated several years ago in a stormy session before the planning commission. The proposal has been raised several times since.

Giersch surveyed the controversial thoroughfare in company with local residents and representatives of the Association for the Preservation of Danville Boulevard.

She said that she had studied the proposed revision of the San Ramon Valley General Plan and warmly endorsed the restrictions it carried against the proliferation of commercial-type, or "strip" development along the old highway. Giersch observed that such land use would be "incompatible with and encroach upon the scenic rural view of this part of the valley."

The general plan revision would bar high density development along the boulevard north of Del Amigo Road in Danville to the Walnut Creek city boundary.

A decision on the revision by the county planning commission was set for yesterday, Giersch said. Subsequently, the document must be reviewed by the board of supervisors, an action not expected until after the November elections.

Hasseltine reports stand on Delta plan

Eric Hasseltine, candidate for supervisor from the fifth supervisorial district, has outlined his position on the fight to preserve the integrity of the Delta water, his stand on the issue, and his record on the Delta fight.

Speaking at an Oakley candidates' night sponsored and hosted by the Oakley Women's Club, Hasseltine declared that "maintaining the quality of Delta water must be a basic commitment on the part of the Contra Costa Board of Supervisors."

"Projects which have any potential for degrading the water quality of the Delta must be resisted," said Hasseltine. "Thus, the Peripheral Canal and the San Luis Drain must be fought. Proposed projects must demonstrate no effect upon water quality before being given approval."

Hasseltine pointed out that his endorsement by former Congressman Jerome Waldie and Congressman George Miller were chiefly motivated by his record of concern and activity on behalf of protecting the Delta. Both cited Hasseltine's commitment to the Delta fight and his qualifications for representing Contra Costa in that struggle.

Hasseltine also called for a "unified approach to Delta problems by all Contra Costa elected officials," and charged his election opponent with a lack of leadership on the Delta issue. "My opponent," said Hasseltine, "while serving on both ABAG and the League of California Cities, failed to put forth a single resolution advocating the protection of the Delta or supporting the on-going battle to secure Delta water quality now and for years to come. Missing such vital opportunities is indicative of her failure to provide the sort of leadership we must have if we are to win this crucial battle."

For more information, contact the Hasseltine campaign headquarters in Danville by calling 820-ERIC.

Pleasanton Demos yield to Murphy-Raymond meet

PLEASANTON — The scheduled Oct. 19 meeting of the Pleasanton Democratic Club has been cancelled "in order to allow our members to attend the debate between Supervisor Murphy and Valerie Raymond for that same evening," explained Eugene Hinton, club president.

The Oct. 19 debate featuring those two candidates for the First Supervisorial District is being sponsored by Citizens Against Redevelopment (CARD) and will be held at the Pleasanton Hotel.

Valley military news reported

PLEASANTON — Coast Guard Chief Quartermaster William K. Nitzsche, whose wife Joyce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Johnson of 3802 Fleminington Way, recently participated in a major seizure of illegal cargo at sea.

He is a crewmember of the Coast Guard Cutter Dauntless, homeported in Miami Beach.

His cutter was on a law enforcement patrol in international waters in the Winward Passage, between Cuba and Haiti. The Dauntless signaled the ketch Naho, a vessel of U.S. registry, to stop for a routine boarding, but the Naho immediately ran for Haitian territorial waters.

Dauntless gave chase, keeping the ketch in sight as diplomatic permission was granted to enter Haitian waters. After about two hours the Naho hove to and Dauntless crewmen boarded the vessel.

A cache of 187 bales of marijuana, weighing a total of 6,500 pounds and valued at more than $2 million, was discovered.

The Naho's five crewmembers were arrested and taken aboard the Dauntless for transportation to Miami where they were arraigned in federal court. A custody crew from the cutter sailed the ketch back to Miami.

Besides anti-drug smuggling patrols, the Dauntless performs fishery law enforcement patrols and performs search and rescue duties. The cutter is 210 feet long and has a complement of 10 officers and 63 enlisted men.

A 1954 graduate of Arlington High School, Arlington, Mass., he joined the Coast Guard in July, 1954.

PLEASANTON — Airman Alan E. Wietecha, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Michael T. Wietecha of 2616 Turnstone Drive, has graduated with honors at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the Air Training Command's basic course for electronic specialists.

Airman Wietecha, who received instruction in communications and electronics systems principles, is remaining at Keesler for advanced training.

The airman is a 1975 graduate of Amador High School.

LIVERMORE — Navy Fireman Apprentice James A. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Stewart of 776 Camelia Drive, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Among the subjects he studied were seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid.

A 1976 graduate of Granada High School, he joined the Navy in June, 1976.

PLEASANTON — Mark E. Andersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Andersen of 5394 Northway Road, recently completed a U.S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps field training encampment at McClellan AFB, Calif.

Andersen received the Vice Commandant's Award. During the encampment, he received survival and small arms training and aircraft and aircrew indoctrination.

The cadet, a 1972 graduate of Amador High School, is a student at Cal State San Jose. His wife, Monica, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berle C. Seery of 2218 Fairfield Road in Pleasanton.

PLEASANTON — Airman Alan E. Wietecha, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Michael T. Wietecha of 2616 Turnstone Drive, has graduated with honors at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the Air Training Command's basic course for electronic specialists.

Airman Wietecha, who received instruction in communications and electronics systems principles, is remaining at Keesler for advanced training.

The airman is a 1975 graduate of Amador High School.

Most fatal U.S. fires blamed on home errors

Despite attention given to spectacular fires in high-rise buildings, night clubs, or nursing homes, most fire deaths in America occur at home and most deaths result from carelessly discarded smoking materials which ignite home furnishings.

According to a report in the May, 1976, Fire Journal, this type of fire accounts for 27 per cent of all fire deaths.

Home items first ignited in a fire tend to be furnishings, rather than structural components with 36 per cent of the fire starts being in the furnishings category and only 6 per cent in structural.

One way to combat the problem is to improve the fire resistance of furnishing materials, but that must be done mainly at the manufacturing stage, so the resident must exercise other means. Two productive steps would be to exercise care in the use of smoking materials and also provide early warning fire detectors in the home.

People can call their local fire department for a free information packet on early warning fire detection.

Marine band tickets available for concert

Tickets are now available at four valley locations for the two concerts of the United States Marine Band slated Friday, Oct. 15 at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre in Pleasanton.

The concerts will mark the band's only appearance in the Bay Area this year. The famed "President's Band" tours a different area of the country each year, the band touring the Pacific Coast this year.

Tickets for the appearance being sponsored by the Livermore Jaycees are available at Valley Bank, 249 Main St., Pleasanton; 7660 Amador Valley Blvd., Dublin; Marine Recruiting Station, 4th and L Streets, Livermore; Dutro's Barber Shop, 2080 First St., Livermore.

Those unable to get to those locations may make reservations by calling Ron Gillette of the Livermore Jaycees at 443-4444.

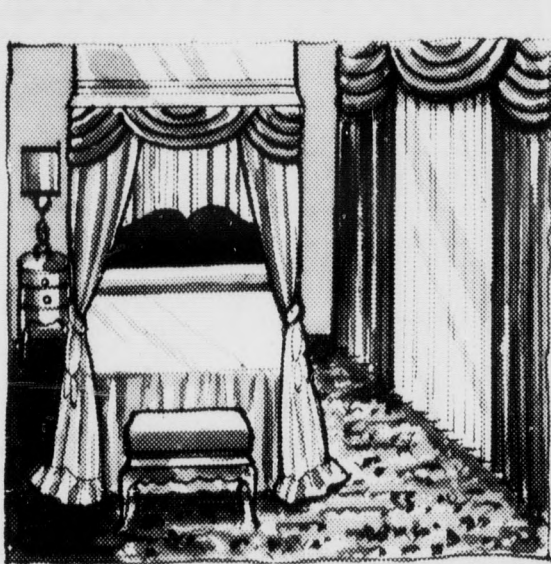

The band will be coming to Pleasanton from concert appearances in Bakersfield the night before. They will stay locally at the Holiday Inn.

The Friday concerts at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre will start at 2 and 8 p.m.

Office permit let

LIVERMORE — Valuation of a 10 building office complex was 75.6 per cent of the total value of building permits issued by this city in September.

The professional buildings, known as Parkside Plaza Office Complex, is scheduled for construction at the northeast corner of Holmes Street and Concannon Blvd. Valuation was pegged at $1.89 million.

The second largest grouping of permits were four new residential dwelling units, with a total value of $212,600.

The city's building inspection department also issued a permit for a $150,000 alteration of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Building at 2388 Second St.

Permits for additions, repairs, alterations or demolishments of 46 residential buildings totaled $106,314.

Other categories and valuations were new non-residential, $2,800; new commercial, $121,000; and other new structures, $18,330.

Stamp out cans

LIVERMORE — Here's a great new activity — stomping on cans!

Just line 'em up on the garage floor and let your kids have a flattening contest. It's for a good cause. The Livermore Community Recycling Center's electric can squasher is out of order and they're pleading with donors to bring in pre-flattened cans only.

They take up less space in your house, anyway. Aluminum cans can be easily flattened by stomping. Steel takes just a bit more work — take both ends off the can, then squash it.

It is suggested that bi-metal cans be kept at home until the can crusher is back in action.

And here's a bonanza for all you people who are getting rid of old phone books. During the last three Saturdays of October, used phone books, catalogues and magazines will be accepted in addition to the usual newspapers, corrugated cardboard, brown paper bags and jars and bottles.

The Recycling Center is located at the end of Pacific Avenue near the library behind the Barn. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays.

Livermore band marches to 3rd in competition

LIVERMORE — The Livermore High marching band are off to a successful start in the round of competitions they face this fall.

They brought home a third-place trophy last weekend from Cupertino, where they took part in a half-time competition against large bands such as Pasadena and Armijo's groups.

The students and Boosters of the band send a big "Thanks!" to local people who have supported them.
